Washington Would Easily Recognize Mt. Vernon Home If He Were to Return to It Today.

RESTORED TO ORIGINAL

(By Associated Press)

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—The 207th birthday anniversary of George Washington finds his 18th century homestead more than ever like it was when he and Martha Washington lived there.

For the Mount Vernon Ladies association, beginning its 80th year as custodian of the most famous home and tomb in the western hemisphere, pursues month by month and piece by piece a perpetual program of restoration.

This means continuous search for furnishings that were at Mount Vernon in Washington's time as well as colonial-type flowers and architectural designs.

WHEN the association in 1860 began its work at Mount Vernon the original building was approaching dilapidation, and grounds and gardens had deteriorated. Houdon's clay bust of Washington and the key of the Bastille, given to the general by Lafayette, were about the only original furnishings in the mansion.

Today two-thirds of the furnishings are those which were in the house when George and Martha lived there. And now the 19-room mansion and its out buildings, from white walls and dark red roofs to the quaint cypress shingles on the barn, are the same in appearance as in Washington's day.

FURTHERMORE, it now would be possible to produce replicas of the celebrated home for future generations of Americans, should the mansion ever be destroyed. Large-scale measured drawings are available which include even the intricate designs of the ornamental plaster ceilings.

Scores of flowers of the same variety enjoyed by the Washingtons and their guests will bloom in the Mount Vernon gardens this year as the result of intensive research which included listing thousands of popular 18th century plants.

SOME 40 of the trees on the estate were there in Washington's time, and a few were planted under his immediate supervision. Old trees destroyed by storms are replaced by the same species, and the landscaping pattern is substantially as planned and developed by the first president.

Stones on which Washington walked pave the floor of the piazza, but a few must be replaced each year because of the ceaseless tramping of visitors. Replacements come from the same quarry near Whitehaven, England, where Washington obtained the originals.

The first president had the weather boarding of the mansion grooved to simulate stone joints. Sand dashed against the freshly-painted surfaces heightened the stone effect, and the paint-sand combination still is used on the estate.

When the barn was reshingled recently, the association brought shingles of heart cypress from the South Carolina locality where General Washington got his supplies. Inside the barn, research is being carried on to determine the location and design of stalls.

Typical recent household accessions are a dainty cup and saucer

of Custine pottery, originally given to Washington by the Comte de Custine Sarreck, and a ponderous waffle iron of revolutionary vintage. (The first president loved his batter cakes "with many dishes of tea.")

* * *

Washington's voluminous diaries and letter to Mount Vernon's overseers are the chief source of information about the original estate. The association has a staff of four research specialists, whose work is augmented by that of the regent, the vice regents from the several states, and the superintendent and head gardener at Mount Vernon.

Fletcher Ousted, Plans Fight for Job

ROAD OFFICIAL DISMISSED BY OHIO DIRECTOR

Notified Two Charges Filed Against Him for Political Activity Last Fall.

MAPS CIVIL SERVICE PLEA

Democrat Had Refused to Quit Post at Request of G. O. P. Leaders in County.

Dismissed as state highway maintenance superintendent in Richland county, effective Saturday, Arthur Fletcher said today he would appeal to the state civil service commission to restore him to his job which he has held since January, 1937.

Fletcher, a Democrat, said the dismissal order came from Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, who told him charges of malfeasance and coercing employes in the maintenance department during the last state campaign had been filed against him.

Blames Ex-Employes.

Flatly denying the charges, Fletcher said two former employes of his department had signed affidavits that he had required them to campaign for Charles Sawyer, the Democratic candidate for governor, before the November election.

"Those men were angered because I was forced to lay them off, and Republican leaders probably influenced them to sign affidavits," Fletcher said. He declined to reveal who the men were.

Fletcher said he understood the charges had been filed through the Ashland office of the state highway department after he refused to resign at the request of Republican party leaders in the county.

Calls Charges 'Ridiculous.'

Fletcher said Republican leaders had repeatedly asked him to resign. He refused, he said, because he received his appointment under civil service and the charges against him were "ridiculous."

It was understood that James

GLAD IT'S GOING!

Cold Spell Due to Vanish by Thursday Night.

Mansfielders today were entirely willing to bid farewell to a sudden cold snap as they dug out of a three and a quarter inch snow blanket to find clearing skies and rising temperatures.

The mercury last night dropped to 6 above zero, but climbed to 21 at noon with the promise from the weatherman that Thursday would be fair with slowly rising temperatures.

The heavy snow was prevalent throughout the state and glazed highways brought warnings from the state highway patrol of "extremely hazardous" driving conditions.

Two deaths attributed to the storm were reported. At Zanesville Abraham L. Taylor, 66, of Bladensburg, Knox county, died of injuries sustained in an automobile crash. F. A. Shuster, 73, fell dead while shoveling snow at Delaware.

QUITS MARCH 7

Arant of O. S. U. Gets Ready to Don Judicial Robes.

COLUMBUS —(AP)—Dean Herschel W. Arant of Ohio State University's law school, who was confirmed yesterday by the senate as a judge of the sixth federal circuit court of appeals, announced today that he expects to ascend the bench at the court's next session in Cincinnati March 7.

"I look forward to my new duties with a great deal of enthusiasm," Dean Arant said, "and yet I leave education with sincere regret."

STRIKES TWICE

Woman Dies As Relatives Prepare For Burial of Her Son.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— Catherine Brennan, 82, died today while members of her family were preparing to go to St. Patrick's church for the funeral of her son, Thomas Brennan, 63, who died earlier in the week.

Mrs. Brennan had been ill for two years. The mother did not know he was dead.

Anti-Nazis Go Into Action at Bund Rally

With platoons of policemen vigorously repulsing some 500 would-be hecklers outside Madison Square Garden, New York, during a rally there of the German-American Bund, pro-Nazi organization, there was also excitement within the building when Dorothy Thompson, inset, newspaper columnist and wife of Sinclair Lewis, novelist and playwright, was ejected and then permitted to return after shouting "bunk!" at a speaker. Large photo shows action outside the garden.

SEEKS STUDY OF POWER PLAN

Mayor to Ask Council to Visit Cities Using Sewage Gas to Generate Electricity.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today that he would ask city council, probably next week, to study his plan for cutting power bills at the municipal sewage treatment plant by utilizing sewage gas developed at the plant for generating electricity.

The mayor said that as the first step he would propose that a special committee, composed of council's utilities, sewer and finance committees, study the sewage gas production and power costs at the plant.

He said he also intended to ask the committee to make a trip to at least one of three cities where a similar plan of power generation now being operated successfully

The mayor said he would ask the committee to go to either Richmond, Ind., Toledo, or Ann Arbor, Mich., all of which are utilizing their sewage gas to generate electric power at sewage treatment plants.

The mayor's action is based on repeated requests made by James R. Turner, plant superintendent, that the installation of a gas driven generator be made at the treatment plant to supply electric power.

Turner has pointed out in monthly reports to the mayor that such a set-up would materially reduce power bills at the plant.

In his latest report Turner said that greater uniformity in gas production, through almost perfect operation in the past several months, was now being obtained at the plant and that if the power equipment were installed, a 61 per cent decrease could be shown in the annual power costs.

CONVICTS EAT

Federal Prisoners at Columbus End 2-Meal Hunger Strike.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Promised a weekly ration of tobacco and coffee with their evening meal, 50 federal prisoners held in Columbus city jail were eatnig regularly today following a two-meal hunger strike.

Meanwhile U. S. Marshal Kenneth Kerr and Police Chief John Dunn questioned the strikers in an effort to learn how one of the prisoners suffered a broken nose and other injuries.

INCOME DROPS

Ohio Farm Revenues Decline 14 Per Cent Below 1937.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The gross cash income from Ohio's chief farm products in 1938 was 14 per cent below the 1938 income, the Ohio State University department of rural economics reported today.

Including income from other sources, the 1938 total was 12.5 below 1937.

FIRE CHIEF DIES

LIMA—(AP)—W. B. Wilcox, 67, Lima fire chief for the past four years, died here today after an illness of several weeks. He had been a member of the department since 1904.

PROBE OPENS IN PLANE CRASHES

Naval Board Checks Fog Plunges of 8 Airplanes.

PENSACOLA, Fla.—(INS)— An investigation by navy bureau of aeronautics officials was under way today into the crash of eight navy planes and the deaths of two student pilots in a sudden fog late Monday.

The disaster, worst in the history of the naval air training station at Pensacola, destroyed about $320,000 worth of equipment, it was estimated by the navy.

Twelve planes were in the flight, which took off about 5:30 p. m. Monday. Six pilots saved themselves by parachuting to the ground, and four planes made safe landings

A 'NATURAL'?

Durbin Says Donahey 'Perfect' Candidate for Presidency.

LIMA—(AP)—U. S. Sen. Vic Donahey of Ohio today was called a "perfect natural" for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination.

Francis W. Durbin, member of the Democratic state central committee, asserted in a letter to former Rep. John L. O'Connor of New York that Donahey "is the one man that the Democrats can absolutely bank on to carry Ohio against the Republican nominee for president whoever he may be.

Durbin told O'Connor, former chairman of the house rules committee who was defeated for re-election last year, that he was writing to say he agreed with a recent statement in which O'Connor said "democracy should get together now on a candidate that can win in 1940."

MURDER JURY DISMISSED

CINCINNATI —(AP)—The jury which heard the second degree murder trial of William Jackson, 44, failed to reach a verdict and was dismissed last night by Criminal Court Pudge Louis J. Schneider. Jackson was charged with the fatal shooting of Edward Andres, 18, in a roadside scuffle last Oct. 9.

SCHOOL MERGER FACING FIGHT

Butler, Bloominggrove Map Opposition; Board Acts on Plan Saturday.

With the Butler and Bloominggrove township school districts in northern Richland county girding to fight a proposal for consolidation of their schools with the Union rural district, the county school board's four-township merger plan today faced opposition that may defeat the consolidation program.

Representatives of the Butler, Bloominggrove and Union rural (Weller and Franklin) boards are scheduled to meet Saturday with the county board at the courthouse to work out a consolidation plan.

Members of the Butler township board said today they would oppose "any plan that will close our schools and we will fight to the last ditch to keep both our grade and high schools at Adario."

Opposition to the consolidation from Butler township at a joint meeting of the township and county boards a month ago caused the county board to postpone a final decision in the matter until next Saturday.

At the last joint meeting, the county board proposed:

1. A one-year trial set-up for the four townships under a school board representing all of them;

HIT BY BLAZE

Plant of Brush, Inventor of Arc Lamp, Destroyed By Fire.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Many original blueprints and some equipment used by the late Charles F. Brush, inventor of the arc lamp, were destroyed last night by a fire which swept through a storehouse of the Brush Laboratories company.

The flames threatened for two hours to spread to the company's main building. Ten fire companies fought the fire in a heavy snowstorm.

'Farewell' Message Recalled As Nation Honors Washington

Mansfield quietly observed the birthday anniversary of the first American president today with closed schools and public offices, while in the national capitol there was unusual attention given to the reading of Washington's farewell address to his country, an annual custom in both house and senate.

Robert A. Taft, junior Ohio senator, was named by Vice-President Garner to read the address in the senate chamber today and it was significant that Senator Taft paused after reading the advice of the man who had led the American fight for freedom from English dominance:

"It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliance with any portion of the foreign world. . . ."

This advice is considered more significant this year in view of the congressional controversy over national defense measures and administration measures in providing France and Great Britain with war supplies, Washington dispatches pointed out.

Opponens to the administration's foreign policy pointed to that section of Washington's address which says: "Nothing is more essential than that permanent, inveterate antipathics against particular nations and passionate attachments for others, should be excluded, and that in place of them, just and amicable feelings toward all should be cultivated."

"The great rule of conduct for us," Washington said on the memorable occasion of his leaving public office after two terms as president, "in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations to have with them as little political connection as possible."

Hospital Edges City In 'Match'

Muny Strategy Fails as Negotiations Near An End.

The first fall in the wrestling match between Mansfield General hospital and the city over hospital care of indigent patients seemed today to have been won by the hospital.

The hospital board of trustees apparently had a better hold on the situation than the city, which tried one bit of strategy, only to have it turn out to be a little on the disastrous side.

Getting away from the wrestling metaphor for a moment, this is about what has resulted from negotiations between the city and the hospital, as disclosed at and after last night's meeting of council as a committee of the whole:

The hospital will continue to give treatment to city cases at $4.25 per patient per day, if the city will supply the hospital with water at a rental of no more than $100 per year, with an additional $50 sewer rental.

The only difference between that set-up and those of the past is that the hospital will be paying something for its water. In the past it has paid nothing, and each year that defection has been pointed out by state examiners.

The city, however, points out that the hospital uses a great deal more water and sewage facilities than $150 a year will buy. It asserts that the hospital actually uses water valued at $3,600 a year and that on that basis the sewer rental would be about $1,700 more, or a total of $5,300.

For a time, it pressed that point, because last year, the city was charged with 4,000 patient days at the hospital, which cost, at the rate of $4.25 per patient day, just $17,000.

But the hospital countered that thrust (are there thrusts in wrestling matches?) by asserting that if the city charged the full rate on water, it would have to charge $5.12 per patient day instead of $4.25. It claimed that the higher figure was the actual cost of hospitalization.

Thus the city would be paying, if there were as many city pa-

GET STATE JOBS

Three From County Assigned to Liquor Stores.

Three Richland county Republicans and two from nearby counties today were among the 72 employes appointed by the state board of liquor control to replace an equal number of provisional appointees now holding jobs in liquor stores throughout the state.

While store managers here said they had received no notice of the replacements, to become effective March 1, Jacob B. Taylor, state liquor director announced at Columbus that two replacements were to be made at the North Main street store in Mansfield, and one each at Shelby, Mt. Vernon and Bucyrus.

The new appointees here, as listed in dispatches from Columbus, were, Nervell E. Smith, R. D. 5, Mansfield, and Charles N. Yarman, 282 Second avenue. Jacque Wilkinson, 14 Williams street, Shelby, was named to the Shelby store. Walter Kibler of New Washington, was appointed at Bucyrus and Martin S. Higgins at Mt. Vernon.

DIES IN PLUNGE

Test Pilot Killed In Power Dive From 10,000 Feet.

PENNS GROVE, N. J. —(INS)— A four-way investigation into the death of Cecil C. Hoffman, 33-year-old test pilot killed in a power dive from 10,000 feet, was underway today.

Hurtling downward at terrific speed as Hoffman opened up the throttle, the plane sheared off tips of its wings and nose-dived three feet into the earth. Hoffman's parachute was found intact.

RATS VS CATS

Rodents Kill Feline In Grocery; Whopper Caught Later.

DALLAS—(AP)—Cats, beware of rats!

Three cats a Dallas groceryman put in his store disappeared.

The carcass of one was found behind some packing boxes, where rats had dragged it after killing it. A professional rat exterminator, W. G. Ryan, went after the rats with a pistol and a flashlight. He killed nine, one weighing 2¼ pounds.

STATE AGENTS INVADE CITY FOR INQUIRY

Solon Who Asked 'Clean-up' Says He's Heard of Arrival But Hasn't Seen Men.

CREW OF SIX ARRIVES

Believed to Have Been Sent to Mansfield in Response to Councilman's Request.

A squad of state liquor agents, reported to be at least six in number, quietly invaded Mansfield today.

Although none could be reached for comment, it was learned that they had been sent here in response to the request made by Councilman George C. Kyle for an investigation of the liquor situation in the city as it pertained to the number of permits.

Kyle said today that he had heard that liquor agents were in the city but had not seen them.

Several permit holders also said they had heard that state men were "in town" but none would say whether or not they had seen them.

Federal Man Here, Too.

Another person, who is not a permit-holder, said he had both seen and talked to one of the men. He would not permit his name to be used, nor would he say what the conversation had covered.

From reliable sources it was learned that a federal agent from the alcohol tax division had accompanied the state agents to Mansfield, apparently to investigate sale of illicit liquor.

Offices of the state liquor enforcement division at Columbus were closed today, in observance of Washington's birthday, and officials of the department were not available to say whether the agents had been instructed to conduct the "clean-up" that Kyle had requested.

Asked for Wrecking Crew.

Kyle, in a letter to Wellington T. Leonard, former Mansfielder and member of the state liquor commission, two weeks ago, asked that a "wrecking crew" of state agents be sent to Mansfield to clean up the liquor situation here. He claimed that more permits had been issued than is permissible under state law, and asserted that inasmuch as the state issued the permits, it was up to the state to correct such a condition.

Kyle wrote his letter after verbally expressing the same belief at a council meeting at which council voted down a proposal to prohibit the sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday. Kyle was one of the councilmen who voted against passage of the ordinance.

Hundreds on Hand As Charm School Comes to Close

The final session of The News-Journal "charm" school was held this afternoon at the Senior High school auditorium, closing a three-day event that has been particularly interesting to Mansfield women and has attracted hundreds of them despite the weather.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Alexander Davis, lecture and expert on health and beauty subjects, drew a larger crowd than on Monday, although a snowstorm continued throughout the day. In his lecture yesterday he talked about personal hygiene.

Today Dr. Davis was to discuss "Eight Ways of Overcoming Constipation, the Great Destroyer of Health and Beauty: Overcoming Headaches, Rheumatism and Foot Troubles."

Dr. Davis conducts his school on the basis that health and beauty are requisites for charm and that beauty is dependent upon health, posture, poise and right thinking.

One of his theories is that when persons approaching middle age begin to fear it and talk of getting old, they actually start on the "down grade," but that on the other hand "youthful thinking" keeps one young.

Writer Opposes Slapping

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

According to dispatches from Chicago, a midwestern judge ruled that it's proper for a man to slap his wife's face. In fact, he thinks it would be a good idea if more men did so.

It would seem, after reading hundreds of letters which have come to this column in more than thirty years, that wife beating is practically the indoor sport of a certain species of human brute, who spends his pay envelope on drink, comes home and beats his wife because there's no money to buy provisions for his dinner.

But we have, according to the aforementioned dispatch, a judge who advocates face-slapping, and thinks it would be corrective of divorce. The judge's views were handed down in the case of a woman of 22, who left her husband after two weeks of married life, after having been slapped twice. Now she wants a divorce.

In his decision, the judge said among other things, that face-slapping wasn't cruel unless it endangered life...a man has the right to slap his wife, and he added, I think if more of them did so, there would be fewer divorces.

Carried to its ultimate conclusion, that means a man is allowed to break his wife's arm, leg or a few ribs.

Granting face-slapping does not kill, what of a woman's self-respect, of those inner spiritual values, without which we are "little better than a beast?" And what sort of children would grow up in a household where the father was at liberty to humiliate the mother by slapping her face before them?

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

From all accounts it's a good season in Florida. Helene is sending me those postals with palms and flower-filled patios and Consuelo has an album of pictures of the house. Bill gave it to her for a Christmas present and she seems to like it better than any of the magnificent gifts she received. He had color photographs taken of every room and from every angle of the exterior, also of the garden and he had the pictures bound in a beautiful album. The place looks just heavenly and it is a shame that Consuelo won't be able to enjoy it much.

And if she takes that movie offer, she won't be able to spend much time at Palm Beach next winter, either. Well, it's something anyway, to know that one has a home like that. I talked to Bill last night and I said that what I wanted more than anything was a place in the country, even if it isn't much more than a shack. If one has a place of one's own, the wolf never looks so fearful. Bill agreed and he said that for a time he had had his eye on a little farm in Connecticut that he thought would be on the market sooner or later. He asked me though whether I wouldn't prefer my stake in the country in California rather than in the east. That stumped me for naturally my family is in the west, and it looks as though my sister was likely to live there for the remainder of her life. So I said to Bill that we could wait a little while but that if we got married we could start a little fund for our little gray home in the west—or in the east. I'm glad Bill feels as I do. He certainly has changed for he used to be one of those "why worry about the future" boys.

Prefers This Side.

I feel sure about the future somehow, despite these troublesome times. I am glad that we live here where we can plan for the future instead of for a war, as they do in Europe. It amazes me how the people can keep going and carry on when they live on the brink of a live volcano all the time. I am so glad that Igor decided to stay and take his chance in America rather than accept the offer of his family to enter their business in Paris. He says that he doesn't miss the continental way of living so much and that he is beginning to like our way of doing things more and more all the time. Helene must be happy, I know.

Here's one outfit I'm taking south. It consists of a navy blue linen blouse and short in one piece. Over it is worn a suspender dress in navy and white linen, box-plaited all round and buttoning in front. The skirt can be worn over a variety of blouses, while the blouse and shorts can be worn separately.

When making turnback cuffs for a man's shirt, sew the smallest sized snap on the cuff about one inch from the edge and at the proper place on the sleeve, and you will find this quite a time saver. The cuffs will not have to be tacked after each laundering.

A number of foods may be made to do double duty in serving as both garnishes and flavorings for dishes. They include candied fruit, coconut, fruit peel, ginger, pimentos, green peppers, olives and certain candies—such as cinnamon drops, peppermint and cream patties of various descriptions.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Must you tell me?" I asked.

"Please do not misunderstand me," I pleaded. "I am anxious to hear anything you wish to tell me, no matter what it is. But it seems so awful for you to have to drag those old tragic memories from their graves and look at them again."

"I know, my dear," he said softly, "and I thank you for your sympathy. But, believe me, it is necessary that you should know all this, in order that you may understand the extraordinary thing I am contemplating."

"I will put this in as few words as possible," he said. "One night, when my father was there, I heard her sobbing pitifully, saying, 'Yes, I must go with you, Philip; I never could live without you. But what of the boy? I love him so.'

"'I know,' I heard my father's deep voice say. 'But my brother, the king, gave me his solemn promise, on the word of our line, that if I sent you away and married the princess he has picked out for me, he, himself, would see that our boy would have every advantage. If I refuse, I am to be imprisoned—in the castle of course—and you and the child are also to be imprisoned, and we will never see each other again.'

"'Oh! No! Philip,' I heard my mother moan. 'Better this other way — if — Philip — will the king keep his word—about the boy—if — we — go — the way we have planned?'

"My father's answer was prompt and firm," he went on.

"'None of our line ever has broken his given word,' he said. 'The king, my brother, promises me that although the boy never will know his real birth, he will be reared exactly as if he were the crown prince's real brother instead of his cousin.'

"And then I heard the only note of bitterness my mother's voice had ever held.

"'Cousin by bar sinister,' she said, and the ugly phrase stuck in my memory.

"'Don't, darling!' my father's deep voice entreated. 'We have so little time left together. Shall we—start tonight?'

"I could hear my mother's anguished breath catch.

"'Not tonight,' she said firmly. 'Tomorrow night, yes. But all tomorrow I must give to little Philip. It is his birthday, and I have promised him a little fete. Oh! my poor baby!" and she broke into piteous weeping again.

"It seemed hours that I heard my father soothing her." Philip Veritzen went on. "Then I must have slipped away into sleep, for when I awakened the sun was shining, and my mother, beautiful, smiling and gay, dressed in one of the gowns I loved best—I had told her once how I liked it—was stooping over me, kissing my forehead.

"'Wake up! little lazy boy!' she was laughingly chiding. "It's your birthday!'

"I looked at her in puzzled amazement.

"'Weren't you crying in the night, Mother?' I asked. 'I thought you and father were talking about going away tonight.'

"She must have been a wonderful actress—I learned later that she had been headed for stardom when my father tok her away from the theater—for her face never changed, and her eyes were still laughing as she said:

"'Silly boy! You've been having nightmares again. Get up and forget them'."

THEATERS

PRODUCTION NOTES: M-G-M is making the second Dr. Kildare picture, with the cast of the first one—Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore, Lynne Carver and Nat Pendleton. . . . Remember "Within The Law," the Bayard Villier drama which Joan Crawford did on the stage and Norma Talmadge in silent films? Ruth Hussey will make a talkie version of it. . . . Mryna Loy and Robert Taylor will be co-starred for the first time in "Lucky Night," which will have action a-plenty. The entire action takes place one nigh during which they win an auto, capture a bandit, win a $1,000 reward, get caught in a gambling raid and end with a romantic climax. . . .

Boone County Folks.

The mouth organ music of Lafe Harkness is familiar to followers of the Boone County folks, who broadcast every Friday night over WLW. Harkness, who is considered a harmonica wizard, adds rural comedy to his act and serves as a heckler of Hal O'Halloran, 6 foot-2 inch master of ceremonies. Harkness is a native of Terre Haute, Ind., who has been playing the mouth organ since he was a kid. The popular radio show, with a half dozen or more well known personalities, including Lazy Jim Day, opens a two-day engagement today at the Madison. On the same bill with the Boone County folks is a film feature revolving around Torchy Blane (Glenda Farrell.)

Pictures Air Service.

"Wings of The Navy" is another one of Warner's "service" pictures in which various governmental departments are used as themes around which the action revolves. They had already made "Here Comes The Navy," "Devil Dogs of The Air" and "Submarine D-1," which dealt, successively with the navy, the marine corps, submarine service, and now "Wings of The Navy," which is a naval aeronautic theme. Romance is injected by George Brent, Olivia DeHavilland and John Payne. This picture remains at the Ohio through Friday.

Loyalty to the Gang.

The strange loyalties that hold together members of a neighborhood gang, even after they have grown up and their lives lie on different planes, is the theme of "The Devil's Party," a Park theater attraction for the last half of the week starting Thursday. The kids grow up, with Victor McLaglen as a night club operator, two of the other boys policemen and still a fourth is a priest. The only girl of the kid "gang" becomes a night club singer. The second feature is George O'Brien in "Border G-Man."

Amazing Doctor.

A doctor of prestige and position commits a series of crimes, including murder in "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," and an amazing alibi is given him which in the end is up to the audience to believe or reject. When the picture is ended, there will be a division of opinion as to whether the doctor was sincerely making scientific experiments or was a ruthless and calculating murderer. Edward G. Robinson is the doctor. The Ritz is also showing Cary Grant and Katherine Hepburn in "Holiday."

The Golden West.

The colorful days of early California, following the gold rush of '49, form the background for the romance and music of Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald in "Girl of The Golden West." The picture is based on the David Belasco play of 35 years ago, in which The Girl who operated the mining town's saloon and dance hall falls in love with a notorious road agent. The old mission at Monterey is shown. Robert Taylor in "The Crowd Roars" is also shown at the Majestic through Thursday.

Favored Foods of Stars

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

It is interesting to note that even thought their work takes movie and radio stars far from their home towns, they invariably retain a liking for the food of their youth. New York, Hollywood, Europe — wherever their careers call, they still yearn for home-town cooking. And when they finaly do get a nice home of their own and an expensive cook, they prefer their favorites to all the fancy cooking.

Take lovely Jane Froman, for instance. Her career in music has taken her far from home, with stops in Hollywood and New York as well as tours all over the map. Still, she retains a fondness for dishes that are tops in Columbia, Missouri, her home town. She tells me that Columbia is famous for its good food. After sampling some of the Froman specials, we are inclined to agree.

Her Muffins.

Jane's graham muffins require one cup all-purpose flour, one cup graham flour, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar (granulated or brown), one-quarter teaspoon salt, one egg, one cup milk, two tablespoons melted butter. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and brown sugar. Beat the egg well, then add the milk and melted butter to the beaten egg, and combine immediately with the sifted dry ingredients. Beat until just dampened or until the batter looks lumpy. Half fill greased muffin tins. Have the oven good and hot at 400° F. Bake for 20 minutes as near center of oven as possible. Makes 12 large or 18 small muffins, and they are good!

Jane's baked ham and apples call for one large thin slice raw ham (one-quarter to one-third of an inch thick), teaspoon dry mustard, two teaspoons vinegar, one cooking apple, one-half cup brown sugar and butter Remove bone from ham. Mix together the mustard and vinegar. Spread the mixture thinly on the ham. Slice apples very thin and spread two layers of thin slices on ham. Sprinkle well with brown sugar. Now roll the ham the long way, starting from the fat side and rolling the fat into the certer. Hold together with metal butcher skewers. Place in baking pan and put a fed dabs of butter on each ham roll. Turn oven heat regulator to 375° F. and bake for 25 minutes. Baste two or three times while baking Serves four.

Favorite Dessert.

Nearly every gal once in a while has a smidgin' of her favorite dessert, even if she does have to exercise more strenuously than usual to balance things. So we give you Prune Marlow, a dessert for which it is worthwhile doing penance! It calls for one cup prune pulp, one-half lb. marshmallows, one and one-half cups prune juice, tablespoon lemon juice, one-quarter teaspoon grated lemon rind. Serves eight to 10. Wash dried prunes and then soak overnight in water to cover. Stew gently in same water till tender, then remove pits. Beat with rotary egg beater or press through a strainer. Heat the marshmallows with three tablespoons of prune juice until half melted. Remove from heat and continue stirring until smooth and fluffy. Add the prune pulp, prune juice (add water if necessary to make right quantity), the lemon juice and rind, and stir till well blended. Freeze at coldest and when frozen reset temperature regulator to medium.

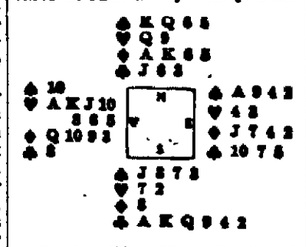
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD THROUGH HIM

If the partner of a pre-emptive bidder doubles the contract you finally reach despite the shutout, the probable location of any important outstanding trumps is pretty well marked for you. The job then is to manipulate your cards in such a way that you can lead through the fellow who is marked as holding the most trumps.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

When West bid 4-Hearts to open this deal, North doubled. With most good players that double is optional, meaning to leave it in for penalties unless you have a spade holding, but not indicating preparedness for a bid as high as five-odd in minors. South read the double correctly and called 4-Spades, which East doubled.

By using the information vouchsafed to him by the pre-emptive bid and the ensuing business double in the East, South made an overtrick. He won the club lead in his own hand, led to the two high diamonds, discarding a heart, lay down the spade K to drop the singleton 10, finessed the spade 8, then led the spade J to force East's ace. A heart was led to the K, and West returned another heart, which South ruffed with the 7. He entered dummy with the club J, dropped East's last trump with the Q, then finished up with club tricks in the South.

If West had led his heart honors at the start, there would of course have been no overtricks, but the real culprit was East, who had the temerity to double when his partner had shown defensive weakness with a pre-emptive bid.

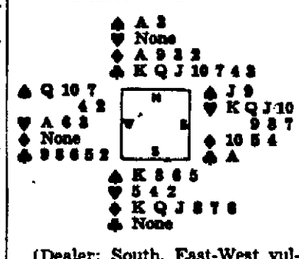
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What main principle governs the fact that, after normal preliminary bidding. North should put the contract on this deal into diamonds insead of clubs?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Feb. 23.

RAPID strides may be made in affairs on this day through initiative, enterprise and high-stimulated faculties and forces, which may seek new channels for creative expression. With steadiness and perseverance much may be accomplished, although there may be obstacles, opposition and resistance, which may be overcome or compromised by tact and discretion. There may be some anxiety concerning the health or welfare of feminine members of the family.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and strenuous year, with much to be gained by initiative, independence and determination, especially in breaking down opposition and hostility or stubborn obstacles. The health should receive due attention and discretion. It is a propitious time for launching new projects, innovations or audacious experiments, although an intimate or personal affairs such audacity might call for moderation or circumspect handling.

A child born on this day may have excellent creative talents, with keen vision in developing and promoting novel, bold or unusual adventures. In these it may be persistent and steadfast as well as audacious. It should be personally popular and well liked for its geniality.

Mechanical Methods Reduce

In rare cases an accumulation of fatty padding is caused by glandular disturbances. The majority of heavyweights get that way because they eat too much adipose building food; what is not required for nourishment is stowed away in the body.

The weak willed victim who falls off the diet wagon will find help at a reducing salon. Mechanical contrivances will help her shuffle off the pounds, though she won't progress very rapidly in her fight with the bath room scales unless she eats in moderation.

One advantage in seeking mechanical help is that a facial treatment is a part of the routine. As adipose cushions dissolve throughout the body, the tissues of the face will soften and invite crinkles. The figure gets younger, the face older. Something to be considered.

The candidate for willowiness rides an electric horse, gets fat cells, jiggled from hips and thighs, her liver stimulated. She swelters under an electric blanket, after which ordeal she is slapped, spanked and pounded by an electrified hand. A vibrator is also used. The operator gives her a vigorous massage, picking up the flesh, rolling and kneading it until her victim yowls for mercy.

When the lady feels that she is about to pass from this life she is made to grasp straps that hang from the ceiling, and is lifted from the floor. That's to give her a stretching and to normalize the muscles.

A cold shower, a rub down and then the facial treatment during which time the poor worn out darling snatches a few winks of sleep.

2 SENIOR HIGH GIRLS' ATHLETIC GROUPS NAMED

Intramural Managers for 10-B Class, Committee to Plan Assembly, Appointed.

Ten members of the Girl's Athletic association at Senior high school were named today as intramural managers for the 10-B class by Miss Margaret Clapsaddle, girl's physical education instructor.

The managers will serve for the remainder of the school year. They are Gretchen Gehy, Eunice Stough, Maxine Bush, Sally Russell, Marilyn Ackerman, Clara Ivinich, Mary Delianides, Helen Webber, Marjorie Torski and Eloise Piper.

A committee of 12 girls was named by Miss Clapsaddle to plan for a G. A. A. assembly program to be given before the student body March 28.

The committee includes Marjorie Mahon, chairman, Marjorie Schwein, Marjorie Boals, Esther Leopold, Virginia Casperson, Virginia Williams, Virginia Fairman, Helen Beilstein, Kay Steil, Virginia Rupp, Janet Kelley and Mary Lou Marks.

The next meeting of the association will be held March 1 in the high school auditorium, when a club talent program will be presented, and girls of the 10-B class will be guests. The program is in charge of Evelyn Mayo and Margaret Zimmerman.

Change in meeting date of the Commercial club of the school was announced today by Garnet Karl, president. Beginning March 1, the club will convene every other Wednesday instead of Thursday as it has been in the past.

A committee of four was named by Miss Karl to draw up a new club constitution. The committees include Dorothy Leech, chairman, Anna Marie McQuaid, George Kitrenos and Evelyn Johnson. No meeting of the club will be held this week due to the closing of school for the observance of Washington's birthday.

PRISON AGAIN

2 Ex-O. S. R. Inmates Get 10 to 25 Years in Indiana.

Two former Ohio State reformatory inmates who were conditionally released from the institution less than three weeks ago by the board of parole today began terms of 10 to 25 years in the Indiania state reformatory.

Associated Press dispatches from Indianapolis said that the pair was sentenced in connection with the robbery of a wholesale tobacco firm there five years ago. Both pleaded guilty.

They were Earl Holder, 24, of Little Rock, Ark., and Frank H. Chew, 25, of New Orleans, both of whom were released here Feb. 2, after having served a little more than five years on a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbery.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said the former inmates were received at the reformatory Nov. 10, 1933, from Franklin county.

Three Pictures From Spain Catch War Drama at Height

THESE three photographs were taken in Spain, where the civil war apparently is nearing its end. They tell you little about the war, but they are probably the most dramatic pictures it has produced. It will be a fortunate cameraman who gets anything better as the Loyalists make their last stand in central Spain.

COUNCIL MAPS $30,000 WORK RELIEF PLAN

Ignores Warning of Auditor City Without Funds to Pay for Feeding of Needy.

Ignoring the warning of City Auditor Paul L. Kelley that the city was without funds to meet relief bills and that none was in sight, city council set up a $30,000 WPA work relief program in its 1939 water development program at a meeting last night.

Kelley asked council to defer action on the expenditure of any operating funds, believing that the state would consider legislation that will "loosen" such money for relief purposes to distressed subdivisions.

The auditor pointed out that the state had set up a $5,000,000 relief fund but that Mansfield together with other Ohio cities was without funds to match the state money.

Before Legislature.

He said the legislature already had discussed legislation that would make funds available for matching purposes.

Kelley warned council that with no funds in sight the grocers and wholesalers might "cut off" the city's credit and extend what he described as an "already acute situation."

"There's no use kidding ourselves," Kelley said, "we're broke in a first class fashion and we have no outlook for any funds for relief."

He added that the city was adding $300 daily to its relief indebtedness with the city's general fund now "even with the board."

Battle Imminent Over 'Importing' of Dance Dates

AMHERT — (INS) — A pitched battle is imminent in the latest "war of the sexes" as male students of Massachusetts State college continue to import "foreign 'femme'" dance partners in preference to the local co-eds. When the sorority dances are held the influx of "furriners" is noticeably large.

It all started when a poll conducted by the undergraduate newspaper disclosed a wide difference of opinion between the boys and girls. The repercussions that followed led the boys to say, "if you want to know why we import women for our dances just look around you."

Threats and counter-threats flew thick and fast at one time the girls countered by doing a little importing of their own.

But a glimmer of hope is held for an early peace as neutral observers report that under cover of night the combatants are seen strolling arm-in-arm around the campus. Discussing peace terms no doubt.

Earl Long

Dismissal of Alice Lee Grosjean (Mrs. W. A. Tharpe) from her post as Louisiana supervisor of public funds by Gov. Richard Leche has again turned the spotlight on what may become a struggle for control of the late Huey Long's political domain. Miss Grosjean was the late senator's private secretary and stood high in his confidence. Mayor Robert Maestri of New Orleans, State Senator James A. Noe and Earl Long, brother of Huey and now lieutenant governor, are mentioned as possible figures in a 1940 battle for control of the state organization.

NATION MUST PROVIDE WORK OR DOLE FOR JOBLESS, ROTARY TOLD

A realistic view of the Works Progress Administration, as it relates to Ohio, was presented at Tuesday's Rotary meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel by J. L. Kelly, of Columbus, Sixth district director of WPA.

Holding the relief of unemployed persons to be a permanent condition which necessitates expenditure of public funds, Kelly said: "It is either work or dole, whichever the people of this country decide."

In opening his talk the speaker explained the operation of the earlier CWA, followed by the FERA, in which an effort was made to distinguish between unemployables and those able to work.

He then told of the development of the WPA and of methods used in distributing federal funds and placing unemployed persons at work.

"Every project," he said, "originates locally and is under supervision of local engineers."

In Richland county, Kelly revealed, about 200 applications are on file by persons for whom there are no jobs at present, while 450 unemployables in this county are on direct relief rolls.

Taxes paid for support of the WPA were defined by the speaker as being "dues paid for the privilege of living in a peaceful and organized society."

William J. Russell was program chairman of the meeting at which R. D. Iden, club president, presided.

MUST APPLY

Mothers Dropped by WPA to Be Re-certified for Work.

Miss Dorothy Arnold, Richland county WPA certifying agent, said today that 65 mothers who were recently dismissed from WPA projects will be recertified for work relief when they make application at the relief office.

Miss Arnold said that the women, discharged by a state order because they were believed eligible to receive aid for dependent children, will be recertified for the jobs upon meeting certain WPA regulations.

Most of the women applied to the aid for dependent children division and were turned down because of the lack of funds in that department, it was said.

Mrs. Katherine McMichael, county welfare supervisor, reported that the waiting list for dependent children funds has increased to 75 mothers, a rise of about 50 per cent in the past month.

TRAINS UNIT IN DISASTER RELIEF

Red Cross Instructor to Conduct Institute Here Monday.

A training institute for members of the Red Cross disaster preparedness committee will be conducted at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 p. m. Monday, with Miss Roberta Morgan, national staff worker, in charge of instructions.

About 50 members of the committee and city officials are expected to attend the institute. At 3:30 p. m. a special instruction meeting will be given at Red Cross headquarters to the 20 members of the sub-committee on registration and intake in case of disaster.

The disaster preparedness committee is made up of a number of sub-committees, which will be trained to mobilize at a moment's notice medical aid, first aid, supplies, shelter and commissary service.

Suspect Collapses, Admits Illinois Kidnap-Slaying

KILLS FARMER TO GET FUNDS FOR MORTGAGE

Planned to Get Ransom Money for Long-Time Friend, Says Killer's Confession.

(By International News Service)

MORRIS Ill.,—To obtain funds to pay off a mortgage on his 200-acre farm, Elvin Wood, 37, shot and killed his close and lifelong friend, Abner Nelson, 38, wealthy and well-liked Morris farmer police stated today.

The crime so shocked this usually stolid farm community of less than 5,000 persons that lynch threast were heard against Wood and authorities hustled him off to jail at Joliet for safekeeping.

According to S. J. Holderman, state's attorney, and Sheriff H. J. Hoyt, Wood confessed he killed Nelson, with whom he had graduated from grammar and high school, by pumping five bullets from a .32 calibre revolver into his back last Sunday evening.

Planned Ransom Note.

"I was planning to kidnap Abner and hold him while I sent a ransom note to his brother Sidney," the officers quoted Wood as saying.

"Suddenly I became excited," the purported confession continued, "I placed my gun against Abner's back and pulled the trigger."

Another version of the confession, which was not given in its entirety to newsmen, was that Wood had confessed he had planned to kill Nelson from the first. This version quoted Wood as saying he intended to dispose of the body before writing any ransom notes.

Nelson, considered Grundy county's most eligible bachelor, vanished from his farm Sunday and the F. B. I. at Chicago had been asked to aid in the search for him. Relatives said they feared he had been kidnaped.

When neighbors reported they had seen Wood's car in the Nelson driveway Sunday evening, Wood was taken into custody for questioning, although he already was active in the hunt for the missing man. Wood was among the first to volunteer his services to Nelson's worried kinfolk.

Sheriff Hoyt became suspicious when stains resembling blood were found on clothing Wood had worn Sunday. Efforts had been made to remove the stains, the sheriff said. Wood denied the stains were blood but after an examination, Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, county corner's chemist at Chicago, declared the stains had been made by blood.

Confronted with this evidence late last night, Sheriff Hoyt said, Wood suddenly collapsed and his confession followed.

BOY KIDNAPED, FREED

NEW YORK,—(INS)—A five-year-old Brooklyn boy was kidnaped and released several hours later upon payment of $300 ransom last Monday, it was revealed by police today.

The kidnaped boy was identified by police as Michael Katz, son of George Katz.

Police said the boy was snatched from the arms of a colored maid who was taking him downtown to meet his mother, and later returned.

Weissmuller of Tarzan Fame, Says He'll Marry Again

HOLLYWOOD —(INS)— Johnny Weissmuller, of Tarzan fame, is going to take a new mate.

He revealed today that when his divorce from the fiery Lupe Velez becomes final—in about two months—he will marry Beryl Scott, daughter of Arthur Scott of San Francisco.

The names of the former world's swimming champion and that of Miss Scott have been linked romantically for the past year. Johnny met Miss Scott, whose father is a wealthy rug dealer, at Monterey when he went there to attend a golf tournament.

It will be Johnny's third marriage and the first for Miss Scott. Johnny was first to wed Bobby Arnst, noted swimmer, and then to Lupe who several months ago asked for a divorce after being married to Johnny for five years.

Weissmuller, who set the world afire a decade or so ago by his uncanny ability to smash world's swimming records, said he was planning to leave for Clear Springs, Fla., for a vacation and will return to Hollywood to begin another series of Tarzan films.

If Mansfield high had had a cheering section last night at the Massillon-Mansfield basketball game in Massillon, it might have won instead of lost. And if it hadn't been for the snow, it probably would have had a cheering section. Forty students had chartered a bus to make the 60-mile trip for the game, but late yesterday afternoon gave the whole thing up because of the icy roads. They escaped what probably would have been a thrilling ride, and there's no question that they missed a thrilling game.

D. K. ECKER DIES

Former Ohio Brass Employe Stricken at Age 73.

David K. Ecker, 73, died Tuesday evening at his home, 419 West Fifth street, after an illness of several months. He had been employed at the Ohio Brass company for 28 years until his last illness.

Mr. Ecker was born Nov. 1, 1865 at Dover, O., but had spent more than 40 years of his life in Mansfield. He was a member of First Methodist Episcopal church; Mansfield Lodge No. 35, F. and A. M., Baku Grotto, and the J. O. U. A. M.

He is survived by his wife, Eva L.; a daughter, Mrs. Guy Lautsbaugh, Mansfield; a brother, James Ecker and a sister, Mrs. J. H. Jones, both of Dover, and a grandchild, David Lautsbaugh.

The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral home where funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Friday, with Rev. E. G. Corwin officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

With modernized engines and cargo space they compete advantageously with other boats.

A list of vessels under 3,000 tons built before 1890 shows that 84 are still on the register. One of them is 74 years old.

HOPKINS LISTS 6 OBJECTIVES

Discloses Program He Hopes to Carry Out as Commerce Department Secretary.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Six definite ideas for commerce department activities have been outlined by Secretary Hopkins in talks with business men.

Although Hopkins himself has remained silent, a piecing together of the views expressed across the dinner table of his home develops this list:

1. A closer watch by the department on legislation concerning labor relations.

2. Study of how tax laws affect business, with a view to working out a clear position on business taxes.

3. Search for a method by which the department can help settle the dispute between the AFL and the CIO.

4. Promoting the re-employment in private business of persons now being taken care of by WPA projects.

5. Development of the business advisory council into a strong working unit.

6. Promotion of better and bigger South American trade.

Business men who have talked with Hopkins often during his industrial study in the last two months are convinced that the principal point he will stress in his speech at Des Moines Friday night will be a reiteration of his belief in the profit system.

The talks have helped to moderate some of the suspicions that segments of business had about him when he was appointed.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coroner Edward E. Smith today gave a verdict of suicide in the death of Charles R. Monsarrat, 27, member of a prominent Columbus family, whose body was found in a garage filled with exhaust fumes.

RELIEF CHISELER UNCOVERED IN INQUIRY PAYS CITY BACK $132

The city relief office has forced a "chiseler" to return $132.31 in cash, which represents the value of food given to her during the past year, J. Verne Finney, relief director, said today.

Finney added that it was one of the first cases in which an individual had been forced to make restitution for falsifying a financial statement to the relief department.

He said that the woman had received aid a year ago for herself, her husband and daughter.

First intimation that she was chiseling came from neighbors who said the woman was separated from her husband and that she was boasting she "had money in the bank." Mrs. Agatha Leonard, case worker, was assigned to check the woman's financial status.

On Dec. 6, 1938 the woman made a sworn statement that she had no money on hand or in the bank, Finney said. Early in January Mrs. Leonard found the relief client had $2,000 in a Mansfield bank and she was notified that she was liable for prosecution under the relief law, which carries a fine of $100 or a sentence of six months in jail, or both.

The woman admitted owning the money and gave a promissory note for $132.31, which she paid in cash several days ago. After a conference with the state auditor, relief officials agreed to drop prosecution upon payment for the relief supplies given to the woman.

FIRST OF KIND

Amish Resident Files Divorce Suit at Millersburg.

MILLERSBURG—The first divorce suit ever brought by an Amish resident of Holmes county was on file in common pleas court here today.

Joseph J. Gingerich, a farmer and father of ten children, filed a petition of divorce from his wife, charging that she refused to cook for him or permit him to eat at the same table.

Court attaches said today that the Gingeriches were about 60 years old and had been married more than 35 years.

The Amish church for many years has prescribed styles of clothing and hairdress for its members, frowns on divorce. Members of the church said that Gingerich had been reprimanded some time ago by the church for his failure to conform to its rules and regulations, it was learned.

Children of the couple, it was said, have been divided in their allegiance to one or the other parent in domestic difficulties which led the father to file suit for divorce.

BACKERS CLAIM PROJECT TO WIN O. K. IN HOUSE

N. Y. Lawmaker Brands Proposal as 'Dagger at Throat of Japan' in Attack.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Advocates of establishing a seaplane base on the Island of Guam predicted today the controversial proposal would win house approval, but they conceded the vote would be close.

"I think we'll win all right," said Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the naval committee, who told the house yesterday that the strategic position of the island in the western Pacific "makes it of inestimable value as a possible defense base."

Rep. Mott (R-Ore) declared that "Guam will stay in the bill but the vote will be close."

The $5,000,000 project is contained in a $53,800,000 measure providing for naval air base construction along the west coast, on Pacific islands, in Puerto Rico and at Pensacola, Fla.

Sets Off Storm.

It was not the expenditure of $5,000,000 however, but the possible effect of Guam improvements on foreign policy in the Orient that occasioned yesterday the most heated debate yet aroused directly by President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defense program. Party lines were split as both Democrats and Republicans in the house upheld and attacked the proposal.

Rep. Fish, (R-NY) asserted there was "no more dangerous project that could come before the house in these days of war hysteria."

"If we were ever looking for war this is the way to get it," he said. "It's a dagger at the throat of Japan."

Guam is 5,400 miles from San Francisco and in an area of the Pacific now dominated by islands under mandate of Japan.

Vinson took pains to point out that the navy has no intention to fortify Guam at this time, but said that should it eventually be fortified, it "would act as a strong deterrent to any Asiatic power contemplating a hostile move toward the Hawaiian islands or the American continent."

At the other end of the capital, Senator Reynolds (D-NC) took occasion in a two-hour speech on foreign policy to urge this country to abandon all consideration of fortifying Guam and thus avoid "the troubled waters of the Orient." He minimized the island's military importance and asserted Japan could capture it with slight effort.

50 AT DINNER

Scouts, Parents Entertained by Program at Church.

Fifty parents and members of Boy Scout troops No. 5 of Hedges school and 14 of St. Jorn's Evangelical church, attended a "Parents' Night" dinner last night in the church parlors.

Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of the church and a member of the church troop committee, spoke on the subject, "Washington the Scout," and George Keil also of the troop committee, gave a talk on "George Washington."

Entertainment included a one-act play "The Tenderfoot and the Ax," presented by members of troop 5; musical selections by Jack Spicer and Donald Maybrey; a novelty act by Paul Smith and Harold Foss.

Paul Smith, scoutmaster of troop 14, and Glen Pore and Jack Augustine, scoutmaster and assistant of troop 5, were in charge of arrangements.

FINDS WEALTHY WORST THIEVES

Doctor's Dog Carries Messages to Him While on Calls.

ST JOHN, Kan.—(AP)—Like the St. Bernards of Alps' fame, the dog of Dr. Ernest Baker, St. John vetreinarian, carries things around his neck. Instead of refreshments for the weary, however, it is a message. When Dr. Baker isn't in the office, but is wanted there, his staff turns the dog loose with a black shoe string tied to his collar. He never misses finding his master around town. The string means: "Telephone the office."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Mere Precedence, Vanity All That Separates the Communists and Fascists

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—False pride is a terrible thing, and it seems a great pity that our Communists should picket and say unkind things about our anti-American or Nazi Bund when all that stands between them is a mere matter of precedence and vanity.

After all, the Communists and Nazis have everything in common, and Herr Hitler made a great gesture of appeasement last week when he ordered all the citizens of Germany into a state of slavery.

The Communists cannot reasonably ask more of a man, but so stiff-necked are they that they refuse to give Hitler credit for his Bolshevism merely because he insists on retaining the leadership of his own Bolshevik country.

That is unreasonable. Nobody wants to put a German or an American Bolshevik in command of the Russians, and the Communists go too far when they insist that no Bolshevism is genuine without their official indorsement and Russian management. Hitler's Bolshevism is very high-grade Bolshevism.

What more do the Communists want of Hitler, anyway? How can the man ever please them, short of abdication to a Russian or someone selected by the Russians?

He has abolished private business and capital and expropriated factories and other means of production according to the Russian requirement. True, he did it gradually, but that was where he was smarter than the Russian Bolsheviki. They tried to do it in great, brutal grabs and met resistance from the owners.

But Hitler came along and said, "Boys, let me protect you from these Bolsheviki," and when they trusted him he took them over by degrees. He succeeded by cunning and kidding, where the Russians had made an awful failure of direct action, but the point is that he succeeded. The Russian Bolsheviki aren't fair in refusing to acknowledge his achievements for Bolshevism.

Herr Hitler was so clever that he kept expert, experienced management in charge of industries, whereas the Russians would have killed such talent. The brutality of that would mean nothing to either type of Bolshevik, but the waste of ability and efficiency would have been terrible under the Russians. It would have been a form of sabotage.

Our own Bolsheviki who criticize the anti-American bund so harshly have to admit when cornered that Hitler has abolished freedom of speech and the press as effectively as the Russians did and under worse difficulties, too, because the Germans were used to a far greater degree of freedom than the Russians. What did the press ever mean to the Russians? How many of them could read?

As far as religion is concerned, too, Hitler is coming along fast. He had an obstinate situation which wouldn't be conquered suddenly. The attempt of the Russian-style Bolsheviki to abolish religion was one of the reasons why they failed so badly in Germany. Hitler, however, started with the Jews and has been progressing to the Catholics and other Christian churches by degrees, meanwhile establishing a pagan state religion to interest the young.

Our Bolsheviki, if they were honest and good sports, would admire the leaders of the anti-American Bund for their tactics in this country.

From the selfish standpoint, the Americans may be thankful that the rivalry does keep the two types of Bolsheviki—Stalin's and Hitler's—apart. With each standing off the other, our position in the middle is not as bad as it might be if they combined. But the squabble does offend truth, and a fair referee would have to blame the Communists for thwarting a happy union for reasons of jealousy only.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—I learned about juggling today from the town's most distinguished-looking practitioner of the art—Howard Hawks.

It isn't the three-balls-in-the-air or cane-on-the-nose type of juggling. It's the kind a producer-director does when he is trying to tell a screen story in a manner seldom if ever attempted before.

W. C. Fields, who used to be a juggler of sorts (and did you ever see a man juggling sorts?) might envy Howard Hawks' poise as he goes about his work. This Hawks is of the quiet school of direction. Looks like a leading man except for the silver hair and dresses—not too quietly, not too gaily—the way Adolphe Menjou should to keep that mythical fashion crown.

ON THE surface, meaning the sound stage where "Plane No. 4" is in work today, there is no juggling apparent. Hawks directs Cary Grant, Jean Arthur, John Carroll, Allyn Joslyn in dramatic stuff that is good but no better than any dramatic scene taken out of context.

"The problem here," Hawks tells me, "is that we have in the one script five different stories—the stories of five distinct characters or groups of characters: Grant and Jean Arthur, Grant and Rita Hayworth, who plays Barthelmess's wife; of Barthelmess and Rita; of Sig. Rumann and the South American airline he owns but knows little about; of Thomas Mitchell, whose life is bound up with Barthelmess's and with Grant's. Even the radio operator has a story, although this is minor.

"And all these stories intertwine—but we must keep each in its proper balance to the others. We have real characters, speaking lines those characters would speak, and—"

To sum it up, briefly, there's no telling at what moment one of those characters might decide to take matters into his own hands. That's why Jules Furthman, scenarist, and Hawks, whose original story it is, are still sitting up nights, working things out to keep everything in balance and yet give each character his logical and just place.

They're trying a new technique in teling of this yarn of aviation over the Andes. A technique that shows the audience what happens first, then lets it fill in the background from dialogue and action that follows. No expository build-up to the fact that one flier's wife was formerly Grant's girl friend—just a simple meeting of the two, and some dialogue to let you piece that particular story together. Scarcely the popular blueprint method of exposition—but Hawks believes that audiences LIKE to use their imaginations. (To which, from me, Amen!)

WHEN I ask him if it's true, as the script says, that the South American banana port of Baranca" is supposed to be in Ecuador, the director chuckles negatively. He doesn't like "definite" settings.

"One I made a picture called 'Today We Live' with Joan Crawford. It concerned the activities of a little fleet of sub-destroyers in the World war. I had for technical adviser an officer from that fleet, and we brought over one of the original boats. And still—when the picture was released—I got 79 letters telling me that boat, and everything about the picture, was all wrong."

CALLS PENSION PLANS 'UNTRUE'

Economist Says Townsend Idea and Offspring 'Fantastic.'

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Both the Townsend old-age pension plan and its offshoot—the general welfare plan of $60 a month for everybody over 60—were branded as "untried and fantastic experiment" today before the house ways and means committee.

J. Frederic Dewhurst, economist for the Twentieth Century Fund of New York, told the committee that either plan would be disastrous to small business, retarding national recovery.

Moreover, Dewhurst emphasized, the plans would prove a bitter disappointment to the aged who look upon them as economic salvation.

Four Tilts on County Tournament Program Tonight

SPORTS CHATTER
By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK—(AP)—Every time an eastern writer takes a crack at Roper vs. Louis, the coast brethren come back with this true bill: "And what about New York and Louis vs. Lewis? And that Galento goon?" . . . Borican vs. Cunningham in the mile tonight—that's what we're waiting for. . . . Pittsburghers say Paul Waner, who slipped badly last season will have to buck up this year or lose his outfield patrol to old Heinie Manush.

• • •

What'll you bet Joe DiMaggio's signed contract isn't locked up in the Yankee safe right this minute? . . . The Huntington Valley club at Philly has signed Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot artist, as pro. . . . The American league didn't lose its oldest pitcher when the Indians tied a can to Earl Whitehill, as some of the boys lamented. . . . Earl was 39. . . . Fred Johnson, Brown right-hander, is 42 and he can prove it.

Just as was chronicled here, Ossie Solem's new Syracuse contract is for three years . . . and if he delivers, he'll get another just like it at the end of the 1941 season. . . . Benny Lynch couldn't make weight for his flyweight title fight with Jackie Jurich and was shorn of his title. . . . He suffered a nervous breakdown and was sent to a hospital. . . . He's escaped from the joint twice already. . . . The guy who wrote that radio script for Maxie Baer Monday night did the neatest job we've heard in moons. . . . Four stars for him.

The campus tattles say last week's upheaval between the Yales and the athletic authorities over the forecast firing of Frank Kaaaly, veteran track coach, is just a beginner. . . . American International college at Springfield, Mass., has an open football date Oct. 21 and would like to book an away from home game either in Ohio or in the south.

To Gordon Cobbledick's cry of "Break Up the Yankees," Jim Schlemmer retorts in the Akron Beacon-Journal: "It would be still better to 'Wake Up the Indians'." . . . Ouch! . . . Henry Armstrong is getting fiis fill of one-night stands and no wonder. . . . Less than $1,000 in Washington and only $738.48 in Louisville. . . . Henry got the old berry when he failed to put away Johnny Shepard, one of his traveling companions. . . . They've got old Grover Cleveland Alexander's spiel at the flea circus sandwiched between the dancing girls and the sword swallower.

Score Second Win in Class B League Race

Baptists, Presbyterians and South Main Tied for First Place.

Basketball representatives of the Park Avenue Baptist, South Main Evangelical and First Presbyterian quintets registered their second straight victories in the second round race of the Church Class B league at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Baptists, opening round champions, with Rayburn leading the way, with 25 points, walloped Central M. E., 44 to 33, South Main topped First Lutheran, 25 to 18, and First Presbyterian drubbed First Christian, 50 to 14. St. John's won on a forfeit over Mayflower.

South Main encountered the most trouble last night in chalking up its triumph. Paced by J. Myers, who contributed nine points, the winners staged a thrilling last period rally to overtake the 15 to 14 advantage piled up by the Lutherans. The Presbyterians tallied 25 points in the final frame while holding First Christian scoreless to tally their win. Meeker was high for the winners with 20 points.

Simpson Trips Loudonville

The John Simpson Junior high club chalked up another court victory last night by defeating the Loudonville Reserves, 29 to 17, at Loudonville.

Simpson, after battling through a 6-all deadlock in the opening stanza, forged ahead in the second to take a lead it never relinquished. The Junior high outfit led, 14 to 9, at the rest period, and 21 to 13, going into the final chapter.

Krupp and Winbigler led the Simpson team with six points apiece, while Wilcox of Loudonville copped individual honors with nine points.

Indians, Tigers Win All Star Contests

The Indians edged the Panthers, 16 to 11, and the Tigers topped the Rangers, 12 to 9, yesterday at the Friendly House in games between all star teams selected from the Junior Optimist league. Led by Konves, who tallied six points, the Tigers had to throttle the Rangers' desperate last-period scoring spurt to win. Carbetta and Sferro led the Indians with six points apiece.

Resume Boxing Classes Today

Amateur boxing classes will be resumed at the Friendly House at 6:30 p. m. today under the tutorship of Ben Dockis. Six of the Friendly House boys, including Paul Carbetta, north central Ohio flyweight champion, will start training for the Marion Golden Gloves tournament opening March 7, at Marion. Carbetta won the 112- pound title at Marion last year.

Massillon Registers 24-23 Win

Everett Collects Deciding Points From the Foul Line.

(Special to The News-Journal)

MASSILLON—Twice this season the Mansfield Tygers have run into the "suicide" overtime period on foreign courts and have yet to come through on the long end of the score.

The latest encounter occurred here last night when Coach Russ Murphy's quintet dropped a thrilling 24 to 23 decision to the Massillon high Tigers in a "sudden death" over time.

Scores Winning Points

Everett, who had been unable to solve the stout Mansfield defense for a single point in the regular game, came through with a pair of free throws in the overtime to give his team the one-point margin.

The Tygers went into the final period sporting a 15 to 10 lead, but some clever shooting by Getz, Archbold and Kowell soon gave the Massillon outfit a 22 to 17 advantage with a minute and a half remaining in the tussle.

Mansfield cut the advantage to a 22 to 20 count and then Jack Dugger flipped in a one-handed shot that knotted the score at 22-all as the gun ended the game.

Don Rose supplied the Tygers with a one-point lead early in the overtime on a foul shot and had a chance of sending the Mansfielders home with a victory on another free throw but missed it by inches. And then Everett, who was fouled while attempting a beneath the basket shot, stepped up to the foul line and slipped in the winning points.

Hold Edge at Foul Line.

Mansfield matched the Tigers from the field, but had trouble in marking up their foul shots. The Tygers connected in nine of their 18 attempts, but Massillon collected 10 of 17, and that edge proved to be the deciding factor.

Massillon grabbed a 5 to 4 lead in the first frame, but Mansfield came back to gain a slim 10 to 9 lead at the intermission.

Jack Lyons set the individual tempo with 10 points, while Herman led the Massillon combine with seven.

The Mansfield Reserves downed Massillon, 24 to 17, in the preliminary affair.

FOR PHILS by Jack Sords

Feminine Grapple Stars Meet On Quality Card Friday

MISS MILDRED BURKE, lightweight champion of the world's feminine wrestlers, will defend her claims here on Friday night at the Armory. The Mansfield Quality Club signed her late yesterday to meet Gladys Ryan of Portland, Ore.

Miss Burke's clash with Miss Ryan will occupy the spot ordinarily taken over by the semi-final match. The contest will be decided, however, over the usual route best two falls out of three, with a 45-minute time limit.

Signing of the Burke-Ryan feature makes Friday's card one of the ace attractions of the season here. It augments the feature tangle between Firo Rinaldi, Italian contender from Milwaukee, and Whitey Wahlberg of Duluth, Minn. Rinaldi will be making his first appearance in the midwest.

Miss Mildred Burke is America's best answer to the oft-asked question: Can women compete successfully in a man's sport?

Miss Burke has stamina, strength and knowledge of scientific wrestling. Any man within five pounds of her weight would have a battle on his hands if he happened to try conclusions with her in mat technique. She knows all the best holds of catch-as-catch-can and is reported ready to take up jiu-jitsu to strengthen her formidable style. Gladys Ryan is an unknown quantity, but comes here well-recommended.

Dehner Leads Big 10 Scorers

CHICAGO — (AP) — Three new names appear this week among the Big Ten basketball scoring leaders, but Lewis (Pick) Dehner, Illinois' Dead-Eye-Dick center, remains at the head of the class.

The newcomers are Paul Armstrong of Indiana and Dave Dupee of Wisconsin, forwards, and John Schick, Ohio State center. They took over the last three places in the first ten scorers. Schick has 70 points.

Jimmy Hull, Ohio State forward, and Ben Stephens, Iowa forward, lost a fine chance to overtake Dehner but mild attacks of flu forced them to miss a game last week.

Both, however, gained on Dehner. The Illinois star scored seven points his only time out to run his total to 119. Hull and Stephens, likewise in only one game, scored nine and 15 points respectively. Hull's aggregate is 111 and Stephens' 108.

Madison, Shiloh Win Openers

Rams Stop Plymouth Club, 33 to 19, Drummer Boys Wallop Adario, 50 to 11, to Advance.

BY CHARLES MARTIN

SIX of Richland county's basketball combines receive their initial tests in the county tournament tonight when they make their debut in the second round contests at Senior high.

Two other county clubs, the Madison Rams and Shiloh, survivors of the opening round of play last night, also return to action in one of the four affairs billed for tonight.

Heading the list of clubs, who make their first appearance are Lucas and Butler, two of the top-flight outfits in the county league this season.

Lucas Meets Minutemen.

Lucas, paced by Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford, individual scoring champions in the league this year, face a real task in Coach John Reese's Lexington high machine in the third tussle on the card.

While Butler, weakened by the absence of Kenny Miller and Wilson from the lineup, will tackle a dangerous Union high team in the opening affair at 6:30 o'clock.

The Madison-Shiloh melee follows at 7:30, with the defending championship Ontario high Warriors meeting Bellville in the evening's final attraction.

The Rams and Shiloh established themselves as serious title contenders last night by registering impressive triumphs in the initial games.

Coach Al Fendrick's green-shirted athletes, with Bill Wilkins sparking the attack, dusted off the touted Plymouth Tigers, 33 to 19, in the best game, and the Drummer Boys put on a scoring demonstration in smothering Adario high, 50 to 11.

Plymouth gave indications at times of making a game of it, but their wild shooting from all points of the court not only cost them a chance of working the ball in, but deprived them of control of the ball for Madison was doing more than its share in handling the rebounds.

The Tigers, who hold second place in the Twin Valley league, might have made it interesting for Madison had they halted the sharpshooting tactics of Bill Wilkins.

The youthful guard battered the backboard for 17 points, more than half his teams' total score, and also turned in a neat performance in handling the ball.

Madison charged ahead to an overwhelming, 10 to 4, advantage in the opening stanza, was leading, 16 to 10, at the rest period, and went into the final chapter sporting a 26 to 14 lead.

LeRoy Ellison, Plymouth's high-scoring center, solved the Madison defense for six points, while Keith Kitchin paced the losers' attack with eight points.

Shiloh, playing its reserves for the last three periods, piled up a commanding lead in the opening frame and coasted in with ease. Adario never collected a goal until midway in the second quarter.

Pile Up Early Lead.

With Bob Moser leading the way in the initial frame, the Drummer Boys whitewashed their rivals to mark up a comfortable, 16 to 0, lead and Coach Raymond Richards immediately sent his second stringers into the game.

The reserves led, 30 to 3, at the half, and finished the third frame holding a 42 to 9 advantage.

Moser, who played the first period, and Arnold, a substitute forward led the scoring with 10 points apiece. Smith topped Adario with four points.

ASKS TRANSFER OF PRECINCT 1-H TO 2ND WARD

Election Board Tells Council Shift Sought to Eleminate Boundary Confusion.

A request was before city council today from the county board of elections for a ward boundary change that would transfer approximately 350 registered voters from the First to the Second ward.

In a communication filed with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., the board asks that council establish new ward boundaries that would shift precinct H from the First ward and add it to the Second ward.

The change is sought, the letter said, to improve the city's election machinery and eliminate confusion caused from the present ward boundary that separates the Woodland district.

Would Enlarge Second.

The proposal would add 350 voters to the 1,600 now in the Second ward and would trim the First ward figure to approximately 3,200.

The change would increase the number of Second ward precincts to six and cut the First ward total to 12.

The present Second ward boundary is the south side of Park avenue west, south on Bartley avenue to Dickson parkway to Davis road, to Overlook road and then south on Andover road to Dickson parkway to Cook road and the corporation line.

The proposal calls for a change only in the east boundary line which would follow Bartley avenue south to Cline avenue, east on Cline to Wood street, south on Wood to Ruth avenue and then east on Ruth to Lexington avenue and south to the corporation line.

Figures taken from the last three elections show that precinct H has 200 Republican voters as compared with 150 Democratic votes.

Getting Ready for Royalty

King's Visit Just Another Chore To Calm Roosevelt Housekeeper

By SIGRID ARNE
(AP Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON—The little lady who is to decide what the King and Queen of England will eat when they visit the White House got her start years ago with whole wheat bread.

She is Mrs. Henrietta Nesbit, a small, quick-moving person with fluffy gray hair, blue eyes, soft voice, and a perfect smoothing - of - troubled - waters way of laughing when things go wrong—like disappearance of the chocolate roll for lunch and the President and his guests waiting.

Last In a Series of Three

She was born in Duluth, but for years she has been a Hyde Parker. She met Mrs. Roosevelt when they were both working in the League of Women Voters before the President became governor of New York.

She had a knack for making whole wheat bread—and friends liked it so well and received so many loaves as neighborly gifts that they began to insist on paying for it.

Mrs. Roosevelt heard about the bread and ordered some for Hyde Park. From that start Mrs. Nesbit branched out to making cakes and cookies and to catering.

On To White House.

Then, when the Roosevelts moved to Albany, Mrs. Nesbit went along to run the governor's mansion. From there she came to the White House, where she looks after meals, repairs, curtains, waiters, and maids. She says the only business training she ever had was on a book-keeping job and as manager of a woman's exchange in Springfield, Mass.

But her job now is equivalent to managing a good-sized store. Her desk in her sunny White House office is covered with charts. She has a secretary, but there is so much business involved in keeping the White House running smoothly that Mrs. Nesbit gets to her desk at 8 and never leaves before 6. On reception nights it is midnight before she leaves because on those nights she slips on an evening dress and joins the guests to see there are no hitches. She had a pretty slate-blue satin for the diplomatic reception.

This is how Mrs. Nesbit schedules meals:

She makes a big card chart for the week with a block of space for each meal. On it she notes how many will be eating and the hour. Then she keeps a loose-leaf note book that ties into the chart. There is a page for each meal with the date, the menu, and the amounts she must order.

MRS. HENRIETTA NESBIT: Bread-baking Led to Her Job.

Hundred Things to Watch.

Then it is a matter of seeing that the ten turkeys get there fresh and on time for the Wednesday dinner and that the 12 packages of bread sticks for the Saturday lunch, the six bunches of celery, the crates of grape-fruit for breakfasts, and the hundred and one other things arrive on schedule.

So there si no time to go rushing around to the kitchen to ice a cake. She has a staff for that. She just looks at the meals before they start upstairs on the dumbwaiter.

Here is a sample menu. It was served the diplomats this year when there were 94 in to dinner

Calf's Head Soup and Bread-Sticks
Curled Celery Assorted Olives
Filet of Fish with Green Sauce
Sliced Cucumbers
Roast Turkey with Chestnut Dressing
Cranberry Jelly
Peas Buttered Carrots
Sweet Potatoes and Apple Slices
Grape Fruit and Orange Salad
Cheese Crescents
Salted Almonds and Macaroons
Ice Cream and Cookies
Coffee

Mrs. Nesbit gets a little weary with people repeating that the President's favorite dish is scrambled eggs, because he has other favorites, too; for instance, braised sweet breads in port wine sauce, roast wild duck, artichokes with hollandaise sauce, and sweet corn in season. She says Mrs. Roosevelt is indifferent to food but she is pleased when she gets chicken livers roasted on scewers.

Mrs. Nesbit says the visit of the King and Queen of England is one of those bridges she is going to cross when she gets to it.

4 KILLED, 100 HURT BY GALE

Twister Sweeps Carolina Farm Community; Fierce Wind Levels 40 Homes.

(By United Press)

WINDSOR, N. C.—The death toll of a tornado which swept through a coastal farm area near here reached four today with the death of Mrs. George Lawrence, 66, in a hospital.

The storm injured 100 persons and destroyed 40 homes. It cut a three-mile path through the farm settlement before blowing itself out over Albermarle Sound.

State highway patrolmen spent the night rescuing injured, many of whom lay in the wreckage of their homes during the torrential rain that followed the wind.

Many families were left homeless and the armory at nearby Edenton housed them for the night.

The tornado had been preceded by a rain and wind storm which drove most persons in doors, and it struck unexpectedly. Communications lines went down and first reports had said that a hurricane had struck. This caused a concentration of policemen from the northeast part of the state.

The full extent of the damage could not be determined until daylight. Except for the settlement of Green cross roads, where 10 houses were blown down, it was believed that the destruction had been confined to farms.

NOTICE!

Because, through no fault of its own, The News-Journal has been printing the comic strip "Tailspin Tommy" ahead of the regular release dates, appearance of the feature has been temporarily suspended.

However, the comic strip has not been discontinued.

It will reappear with no interruption in the continuity of the story on Saturday, Feb. 25, in the week-end green tabloid, in which it will appear thereafter.

The new and popular strip, "Blondie," now appears on this page daily.

FRENCH, ITALIAN TROOPS CLASH

Paris Also Hears Germany Sends Troops to Danger Spot in North Africa.

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP)—Premier Mussolini confirmed to Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco today that Italian troops are at the Spanish leader's disposal until "final victory."

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Persistent reports of a clash between French and Italian troops on the Tunisian boundary, in which 84 were killed, brought strained French-Italian relations sharply to the foreground again today.

The reports were received in diplomatic as well as private quarters in Paris and came from Tunis.

The foreign office said it could not confirm them but did not issue an immediate denial.

The clash was said to have occurred when Italian troops penetrated French territory from Libya at a spot about 25 miles southeast of the first French fortified line around Ben Gardane.

French casualties were placed at four killed and Italian at 80 killed. The Italians were driven back into Libya, the report said.

Friday night French reinforcements suddenly were shifted to a fortified zone.

The French Mediterranean fleet had arrived at the Tunisian port of Bizerte the day before. A naval detachment was reported to have begun patrolling immediately along the Tunisian coast.

In recent weeks other border incidents have been reported but none was confirmed officially.

Three weeks ago an Italian airplane was reported to have flown over Tunisian territory and to have been shot down by French anti-aircraft gunners.

There also have been roundups of Italians in Tunisia, culminating in the arrest Sunday of an Italian consulate employe named Spada.

Reports circulated that a map of Tunisian defense lines were found in his possession, but police would not confirm this.

Among precautions reported to have been taken Friday and Saturday was an order for all military air detachments in Tunisia to be ready for action.

Troops throughout Tunisia were said to be held to barracks.

Reports circulating abroad that German troops had been moved through Italy to Libya also were heard in Paris diplomatic circles but could not be confirmed.

It generally was believed, however, that Italian reinforcements had been sent to the African possession, which already was garrisoned by some 60,000 troops.

France confirms having some 35,000 troops in Tunisia and could quickly move in reinforcements from Algeria in case of emergency.

Military experts say the Tunisian defense line and natural difficulties of the terrain are such that the French probably could hold off many times their numbers.

SAVED 14 TIMES, DEATH DAY NEAR

WPA Worker, Who Killed Child With Spike, Dies Monday.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)— A 27-year-old former WPA worker, saved 14 times from the electric chair in which he was sentenced to die for killing a three-year-old boy with a railroad spike, must walk the "last mile" Monday unless granted clemency by Gov. Arthur H. James.

The prisoner, Roy Lockard, and Mrs. Margaret Karmendi, 28, were convicted of beating the woman's child, "Sonny," to death three years ago because the boy "tattled" about their dates.

The mother twice sentenced to death, won a third trial and was convicted of second degree murder.

Lockard's latest plea to the state board of pardons for commutation of his sentence was refused last night.

WORKERS STRIKE AT MT. VERNON

'Sit Down' Stalls Operations at Timken Bearing Plant.

MT. VERNON — (AP) — Operations of the Timken Roller Bearing company plant here were curtailed today by a sit-down strike, Manager W. E. Sloan said. The plant employes 165 men and women, but it was not determined immediately how many were involved in the sit-down.

Sloan said he had heard something about "dissatisfaction" among employes over rates. The plant has a contract with the steel workers organization committee (CIO), but no union official was available for comment on the strike.

FLETCHER TO FIGHT OUSTER

Highway Maintenance Head in County Told Charges Have Been Filed Against Him.

Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division engineer, said he had made no recommendation for the post, but admitted that McMillen was a leading contender for the job.

McMillen, a Republican and former partner in the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company, has the approval of the county Republican executive committee, although it was understood he has not been officially endorsed.

Shaffer declined to discuss the charges against Fletcher, adding that he preferred to let State Director Beightler announce the dismissal and the reason for it. Beightler could not be reached for comment.

Fletcher was named to the post to succeed Guy Stewart when the latter took office as county commissioner two years ago. Fletcher has been with the state highway department for six years.

GIRL'S ABDUCTOR FACES LIFE TERM

Church Organist Accused of Child Stealing, Morals Charges.

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Townsend Davis, 40, lanky church organist, faced life imprisonment today for the abduction of eight-year-old Anne Louise Sweitzer and several morals offenses which police said he admitted committing upon her.

The child stealing charge which the parents of Anne Louise filed yesterday, when she and Davis were brought back from a flight across state, would, police said, be bolstered by at least four other felony counts.

Child stealing carries a maximum prison sentence of from 10 to 20 years and conviction on the morals counts would imprison Davis the remainder of his life.

GALION COUNCIL ACTS ON POLICE, FIRE PENSIONS

Asks Common Pleas Court to Delay Ruling; City Hall Bonds Acted Upon.

GALION—One of the busiest meetings of the year was recorded for city council at its meeting Tuesday night in the temporary city hall.

A motion was passed to ask the Crawford county common pleas court for an extension of time for council to show cause why council has not appointed their members to the firemen and policemen pension boards.

Council president, G. M. Badgley, named a committee of Lawrence Neumann, O. W. Cronnenwett and Thomas Maidens to contact the court judge. An adjourned meeting will be held Friday night to hear the outcome of the interview with the judge.

Mandamus Writ Served.

At the last meeting of council a writ of mandamus compelling council to appiont members to the board of the police and firemen's pension fund, was served. A motion to appoint such a board died for the want of a second. The writ is returnable Saturday morning, Feb. 25, at 9:30 o'clock.

Additional appropriations for the new city hall project was asked, and a resolution was passed amending the former resolution, declaring the necessity of a bond isue and issuance of notes in anticipation of the said bonds for the construction of the city hall in the amount of $30,000.

The new ordinance provides for an additional $10,000, the first ordinance calling for a bond issue of $20,000. Low bids for the project received last Thursday with architectural fees total approximately $84,500 while the amount which had been appropriated totaled only $81,000.

The annual appropriation ordinance was passed. This calls for a grand total of $325,005 for all city expenses for the year 1939.

Twenty-two employes of the electric light department of the city petitioned council for legislation to provide 10 days vacation per year with pay. This was referred to the finance committee.

Another ordinance passed called for the vacating of the first alley east of East street, running north and south, from East Church street to the first alley south of East Church street, to make way for the construction of the new East school building.

COUNCIL MEETS AT CRESTLINE

St. James Street Property Owners Request Repair of Thoroughfare.

CRESTLINE — A number of property owners from St. James street were present at the regular meeting of city council Monday evening and requested the improvement of the street from Main street north.

At the last regular meeting of council plans were submitted for the proposed improvement of High, Newton, Crestline and St. James streets from East Bucyrus through to Main street.

St. James is the only street among the group that extends over East Main street and for that reason property owners thought best to have it included with the others at this time.

Council instructed City Engineer Kenneth Schaffer to prepare plans to improve this street and it will be included when the other streets are submitted as a WPA project.

Mayor L. F. Waldbauer presided for the meeting at which all members were present.

Routine business was conducted and the pay ordinance amounting to $750.53 was allowed.

GALION RESEARCH CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL 'GUEST NIGHT' MEETING

GALION—For its annual "Guest Night" program Tuesday the Research club chose the social rooms of the Church of Christ. After members and guests are welcomed by the club president, Mrs. W. J. Neff, the program numbers were introduced by Grace Weston. There were piano numbers by LaVergne Stone of Mansfield, and his sister, Evangeline, also of Mansfield, appeared for violin numbers. Another feature included a group of songs by Franklin Craun. Dramatic students of Galion high school under the direction of Hilda Schooley presented a play. Those taking part were Howard Ness, Lawrence Maidens, C. J. Ewell, Louis Girton and Herbert Eichhorn. The program closed with a group of songs by Miss Schooley.

Refreshments were served by women of the church. The menu was planned by Mrs. S. D. VanMeter, Mrs. C. Luther Ness, Mrs. Don Mochel and Lilly Mueller, all members of the club. Assisting Miss Weston for the program arrangements were Mrs. J. R. McKean, Mrs. D. K. Davis, Mrs. J. H. Ulmer and Lettie Smith.

The bride graduated in May 1938 from Mt Carmel School of Nursing in Columbus. She graduated from Galion high school in 1935. Since May she has been following her profession in Columbus. Her husband is an employe of the Ohio National bank in Columbus where the couple will make their home.

GUEST SPEAKER

GALION — Objectives of the public school systems were outlined in a talk by Supt. O. E. Hill of the Galion schools when he was guest speaker Tuesday noon for the Galion Kiwanis club luncheon meeting.

His subject was "Education for All." The program was in charge of C. E. Craun, chairman of the agriculture committee, and he presented his son Franklin Craun who sang several solos.

Polk township farmers were guests of the club, and 10 members of the inter-club relations committee of the Mansfield Kiwanis club were also guests.

Ashland to Decide On Building Home For County's Aged

ASHLAND—As a last resort in an effort to see if Ashlanders are interested in the building of an old ladies' home, an open meeting will be held in the court house assembly room here Thursday day.

Money for the founding of the home for aged women in Ashland has been available since 1926, for according to the terms of the will of the late Juliette McConnell, $26,000 for that purpose was bequethed from her estate.

So far, no move has been started in Ashland to provide for the home and the sum is said to have grown to close to $30,000. Heirs have filed suit in common pleas court to have the bequest provision annulled and the proceeds divided among them.

30 TAKE COURSE

BUCYRUS—Thirty adults registered for advanced training in first aid Monday night in the class to be conducted by George T. Costello, field representative of the National Red Cross. Instruction was given the class in life saving Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. Attending the class are persons from Mansfield, Galion, Crestline, Tiro and Bucyrus. The classes will continue for three weeks.

ORDERS SEWER RENTAL CHARGE FOR BUCYRUS

Council Acts to Obtain Fund With Which to Operate New $150,000 Plant.

BUCYRUS—Legislation dealing with the operation and maintenance of Bucyrus' new $.50,000 sewage disposal plant, which will be placed in operation next month, occupied city council during their regular session Tuesday night.

Because no funds are available for operation of the plant, an ordinance was presented providing for the collection of a monthly sewage service charge from all sewer users, the amount to be based on the individual water bills. A minimum of ninety cents a month has been estimated by Service Director C. I. McNeal or approximately 25 per cent of the water charge.

Sent To Committee.

The question of monthly or quarterly collections of the charge rests in the hands of the finance committee, to whom the ordinance was referred.

Legislation was adopted providing for the employment of four operators for the plant, including a chemist at a salary of $1,560; two operators at a salary of $1200 and a relief operator at the same salary.

An ordinance was also approved authorizing the service director to employ a technical supervisor for the first six months of operation of the plant.

Pending the first collections of sewage service funds, council voted to appropriate $5,000 from the general fund for operation of the plant.

In addition to legislation dealing with the sewage disposal plant, council approved two claims for damages for the recent underpass construction, which are the last of the claims submitted to council. They were for $2,000 to J. D. Kitchen and $750 to Anna and Augusta Margraff.

Council also voted their appreciation to Bucyrus merchants who made possible through their contributions the newly installed police patrol radio system which is now being operated under test. Mayor George Dustman reported that the system was satisfactory and that all members of the police force has passed tests making them third class operators.

CANCEL LEAVES OF U. S. MARINES IN JAP CRISIS

American Officials Take New Precautions as Terrorists Anger Nippon.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI—Leaves of a majority of United States marines were cancelled today as Japanese anger over activities of Chinese terrorists threatened a crisis involving the interests of foreign countries.

Japanese authorities were expected to present a series of demands—reported from Tokyo to approximate an ultimatum — to authorities of the foreign-controlled international settlement.

It was reported that Japan would demand an increase in Japanese members of the Shanghai municipal police and possibly authorization for Japanese military units to patrol the international settlement to combat terrorism.

Assassinate 'Traitors.'

Within 18 months Chinese terrorists, operating with astonishing audacity in the heart of Japanese-occupied territory, had assassinated more than 80 Chinese "traitors" who were co-operating, openly or secretly, with Japanese conquerors, while Chinese guerrillas harassed communications and attacked isolated garrisons in territory long nominally under Japanese domination, these men, some of them members of the "Blue Shirt" patriotic organization, had operated in densely populated Shanghai.

A week ago a large force of Chinese penetrated into the heart of the Japanese-controlled Tato area of western Shanghai, fired a number of shots in the air in front of the principal police station, and scattered pamphlets announcing in the name of the "Chinese anti-Japanese anti-traitor Iron and Blood Corps" that all "traitors" would be exterminated.

Next, terrorists shot and killed To Foh, a leading judge of the Japanese-sponsored government of Greater Shanghai.

Terrorists fired on a Japanese army automobile in the crowded Nanking road in international settlement territory. They wounded Jiichi Koyanagi, an official Japanese army photographer, Kokuro Sato and Miss Masko Morioka. Next terrorists bombed the Japanese kungdah mill.

SCHOOL MERGER FACING FIGHT

2 An outright merger to bring all the 630 pupils in the area to the Union district in Franklin and Weller townships. Under the trial plan, the districts would be permitted to operate their schools a year before deciding on a consolidation move.

Even the Union district appeared to be wavering today in its attempt to effect the merger which would bring nearly all of the pupils in the northeast section of the county together in the Union district.

Judd Clingan, clerk of the Union board, said there is a possibility of a merger of the Union district with Milton township of Ashland county, and in the event of such a tie-up the Union board probably would drop its attempt to bring Butler and Bloominggrove township pupils into the district.

The Ashland county district, it was understood, proposed to join the Union district if the present high school is retained in Weller township. Under the county board's plan, a new high school would be built in Franklin township to serve Butler, Bloominggrove, Weller and Franklin townships, while the present Union high school would be used as a grade school.

A proposed bond issue for the new high school was turned down twice last year by voters in the Union rural district.

It was learned today that petitions are being circulated in eastern Bloominggrove township to send the pupils there to Adario, while those in the western part of the township would go to Shiloh.

Opposition to the consolidation in Butler township was based on the contention that it is too far to transport pupils from the Adario district to the Union district.

STUDY CITY TAX

Toledo Officials Consider Muny Income, Sales Levies.

TOLEDO—(AP)—A proposal for a city one per cent sales tax or an income tax to meet Toledo's $850,000 relief deficit for 1939 was before city officials today.

A citizens' advisory committee appointed by City Manager John N. Edy reported the income tax as "the most proper solution" of raising relief funds to secure a matching grant from the state. The committee proposed the one per cent city sales tax, to be collected by the state and allocated back to Toledo, as a second solution.

A "pay as we go" policy was advocated by the committee in future relief spending, but it criticized the state for requiring municipalities to provide 50 per cent of funds.

SCHOOL BUS HIT

29 on Board Unhurt; Ice on Road Causes Crash.

Twenty-nine children on a school bus and occupants of five cars escaped injury in two accidents near Mansfield yesterday. Icy roads caused both mishaps.

Three cars were involved in the school bus accident, 3½ miles north of the city on route 39 at 4 p. m. yesterday, according to Highway Patrolman C. B. Tieben. The cars were driven by Ralph Vaughn, Shelby, Randall Arnold, Shelby, and Elvin Elliott, 17 Dunbilt court, Mansfield, Tieben said.

The school bus had stopped to discharge children. Stopped behind the bus were the cars of Vaughn and Arnold. Tieben said the Elliott car struck the Arnold car knocking it and the Vaughn car into the bus. Elliott told Tieben that he was unable to stop because of the slippery road.

An auto driven by Stanford Evans of Cardington, struck the rear of a car driven by James Hiskey, R. D. 4, at 6 p. m. on route 30 in East Mansfield.

HOSPITAL EDGES CITY IN 'BOUT'

Negotiations Over Care for Indigents and Water Rate Nearing an End.

tients treated for as long a time this year as there were last, $20,480 instead of $17,000.

A bit of figuring shows that the hospital bill would be $3,480 higher than last year, but since the city would collect $5,300 in water rents, the city's net outlay would be $1,820 less.

But there's a catch to that. The income to the water department could not be turned into the general fund, from which the hospital bills are paid. So the city wouldn't save anything on hospital costs. In fact it would be out money.

Service Director Earl A. Nist said today that the finance committee of council had "tentatively agreed" to a renewal of the $4.25 daily rate, with the $150 water-sewer charge assessed against the hospital.

Nist, who has the authority to sign a contract with the hospital for care of city patients, would not say today whether he had reached a decision.

Officers elected for 1939 were Mrs. Robert Shreffler, president; Mrs. A. B. Allison, vice president; Mrs. Hugh Hildebrant, secretary; and Mrs. Lloyd Ritchey, treasurer.

Fifty members and guests attended the evening meeting of the Home society of the First Methodist church at the home of Mrs. Clayton Mayer. The program consisted of a book study led by Mrs. Mayer, devotions in charge of Mrs. Arthur Staples, a reading by Miss Betty Hart; a piano solo played by Miss Carolyn Bond, and a brief history of George Washington taken from the "Christian Herald" by Miss Lois Cory.

Mrs. Mary Kuhn, president, conducted the business session of the Jennie Larmouth Missionary society of the First Lutheran church, entertained by Mrs. Lester Stephan. Members assisting with the program and entertainment were Mrs. Atlee Lewis, Mrs. Eldon Heck, Mrs. George Kilgore and the hostess. Twenty members and two guests attended.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1939.

As someone thought to remark—there are two sides to every highway, right side and suicide.

Out in Illinois a man was arrested for putting counterfeit nickels into a slot machine—but at that he couldn't any more than break even.

New York's Governor Lehman tells the legislature he'll not send any emergency messages except in emergencies—dispelling an idea that an "emergency" can be found to fit any political expedient.

When 'Freedom' Borders on Treason.

SOME idea of the zealousness with which freedom of speech is protected in the United States may be gained by considering incidents associated with that Monday night meeting in Madison Square Garden, New York, sponsored by the Amerikadeutscher Volksbund, shortened, for convenience, to "bund."

With attendance estimated at 18,000, order was maintained by uniformed "storm troopers" wearing black iron crosses, and decorations included flags showing the Nazi swastika and the bund designation "A. V.," all on a red background. The color guard carried swastika pennants, with American flags bringing up the rear, while "hundreds of arms snapped to the Nazi salute," according to Associated Press report.

Seventeen hundred New York policemen were on duty in streets in the vicinity of Madison Square Garden to make sure that the "rights" of propagandists of an alien ism were not encroached upon.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, was referred to as "Rosenfeld," and mention of his name was received with boos and derisive shouts.

In this demonstration there was exhibited the same spirit of vicious intolerance that has marked the Hitler anti-Semitic brutalities in Nazi Germany—which is entirely out of accord with American principles of democracy, and protection of the rights of minorities.

No questions were asked as to whether leaders and their followers in this Amerikadeutscher Volksbund's "observance of Washington's birthday" were American citizens or alien agitators, bent on transforming the United States into a part of the Hitler world empire.

Here was an exemplification of "freedom of speech" enlarged to the nth degree—a freedom that may not be found elsewhere in the world—a freedom to insult the president and attack the principles of the government that protects it.

Imagine spokesmen and adherents of democracy holding such a meeting in Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy or Communist Russia. The thought is intriguing.

Reserve Power In Stored Gold.

THERE may be a use, after all, for that vast store of gold, now nearly $15,000,000,000, owned by the United States government. It is about three-fifths of all the known gold in the world, and incomparably more than any nation has ever held before.

Gold has long been the basic stuff that nations fight with. They can get along for a while on credit, but eventually capacity for offense or defense is usually measured in terms of gold. That was the main strength of America in the World war; we could not only arm ourselves, but we could help other nations to fight with us by financing their arms and armies.

The United States, Great Britain and France are the three nations with the most gold today. Together they hold or control three-fourths of the world's gold. If it ever comes to a show-down, a last stand of liberal civilization against autocracy, those fifteen billions would pay for a tremendous lot of fighting power.

Much Interest In Lecture Series.

THE more than five hundred Mansfield residents who attended the opening session of the Institute of International Understanding series, in Senior high school auditorium Monday evening, can scarcely fail to have a better conception of conditions in central Europe than they previously had.

While the speaker, Dr. Karl W. Deutsch, of Prague, is of Sudeten German ancestry, his sympathies lie with Czechoslovakia and he states the case of that unfortunate democracy which has been dismembered by Hitler as a result of the Munich agreement last fall.

An interesting phase in connection with Dr. Deutsch is the extent of education he has attained at the age of 26, having studied in Germany, Czech and English universities and earned a doctor's degree in law and political science.

This series, sponsored by the University and Rotary clubs, continues for four more successive Monday evenings. Lectures start at 8 o'clock; there is no charge for admission, and the public is invited.

Next Monday's topic, "The Good Neighbor Policy In the Americas," will be discussed by Isaac J. Cox, professor of history at Northwestern university. This is a subject made more than ordinarily interesting by recent happenings, and the views of an authority on Latin American relations with the United States should prove enlightening.

It is recommended that the next four Monday evenings be reserved for attendance at this series of talks on world subjects.

Acid Test of Character.

AS has been pointed out by at least one prominent economist, the term "emergency spending" has been abandoned. Government spending on a gigantic, ever increasing scale is rapidly coming to be accepted as a permanent necessity. So-called "emergency" bureaus have become an integral part of governmental machinery.

The most serious attempts to economize have been drowned out with the cry of "emergency." Now the sole issue is spending for spending's sake versus economy. The nation is face to face with the acid test of national character. For a decade its people have permitted their government to live far beyond income. For ten years government expenditures have risen steadily. From 1932 to 1938 alone the net increase in the national debt totals more than twenty billion dollars.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — More than ever before in peace time the government is going after bright young men from the colleges to fill its fighting planes and laboratories.

The government is expanding its pursuit of the arts of war side by side with its pursuit of the arts of peace.

To man the 3,000 new planes the air corps expects to buy during the next two years will require not only 25,000 extra enlisted men from outside the colleges, but 2,000 more officers, most of them college men.

At the same time the department of Agriculture is reaching out for 1,100 bright young college men. It wants to get that many probably within the next year to begin hunting in four new laboratories for new uses to which surplus cotton, corn, wheat or potatoes can be put. They also will seek uses for crops which can replace those of which we now have too much

The selection plan has not been worked out but it probably will be something akin to the system which the big technical industries, such as General Electric, General Motors and Chrysler Motors use in searching out expert help. These companies take selected students fresh from the campus and give them jobs in the company plants to learn the business.

Fliers a Problem.

More complicated is the method of selecting army fliers. The army couldn't absorb 2,000 new fliers all at once even if it could train them. It would put a disastrous "hump" in the promotion system to take in so many all at once. Many would serve for years without a promotion, as would all those coming in after them.

Instead the immediate requirements will be filled by bringing in from the private air schools reserve officers, flying cadets and newly trained fliers who will serve only three to seven years. Each year for the next 10 years 200 to 300 will be selected from this list for permanent commissions in the air force.

But the immediate prospect is for 3,000 air corps reserve officers to be offered active duty for three to seven years, an increase from 1,350 such jobs during recent years. If at the end of three years they are not chosen for permanent commissions, they may retire, trained fliers, with a $500 bonus

Of course if war comes, they'll be on the spot.

Comparison With 1914 Gives Hope

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Sam Rayburn, Democratic leader in the house of representatives, tells us that one must be "more than blind" not to see that world conditions are more threatening now than they were in early 1914, just before the last and biggest war broke out.

I am not so sure of that. Today's conditions are more conspicuously threatening. But are they actually more so?

Europeans knew in early 1914 that the fuse was sizzling. They already knew it in 1908, when I first went overseas as an American news correspondent. There was no war talk then on this side of the Atlantic, but I ran into it immediately in Britain and on the Continent. We Yankees simply were not aware of it. We are this time

When Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria was assassinated at Sarajevo I was a news association manager (recently returned from abroad, and therefore somewhat freshly in touch with old world bitterness) in San Francisco. And I could not persuade my association's Pacific coast client publications to issue extra editions, the editor did not believe there would be any demand for them. They probably were right about it, too—at that juncture. But let any one-horse little subdictator be assassinated at present?—how those same editors would jump to it!

The difference is, not so much that the situation is worse than it was, but that we are conscious of it

New Republican Leadership.

Congressman Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts, is performing like a house-afire as Republican leader in the house of representatives.

He has won a number of votes against the Roosevelt administration by keeping all the members of his minority on the job, while a lot of the majority-ites have not been present for roll calls.

Of course the suspicion is that the Democrats are not as faithful and cohesive as the Republicans. Indeed, the Republicans have had to have a lot of Democratic ballots to help them. However, the Republicans have been aided by a lot of Democratic support that the New Deal Democrats did not consider them entitled to.

New Republican Leader Martin, in the house of representatives, has raised considerably more heck than has older Republican Leader Charles L. McNary in the senate—though the latter has done fairly well too, partisanly speaking. It is to be taken into account that Martin's minority, relatively, is a good bit larger than McNary's. Still, Martin shows more genius.

One thing that Martin has done is to start an investigation of "emergency powers" granted by congress to the president.

The ordinary congressional investigation theoretically is bi-partisan, meaning that the majority party bosses it. It always comes out as per the latter party's wishes. Here's a new kind. It can be only semi-official, but it may be thrilling

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Your Son, My Husband.

At first I felt a jealousy
Of you, who shared his love,
New mother, mine. I wanted all
And could not think above

That wanting. Brides who give their hearts
Completely, such brides give
Deep dreams and in return would have
All, but as more they live

The years, this then they come to know:
Men to their mothers true
Are true to wives, and that these men
Keep finest dreaming, too.

Words of the Wise

We can easily manage, if we will only take, each day, the burden appointed for it.—But the load will be too heavy for us if we carry yesterday's burden over again today, and then add the burden of the morrow to the weight before we are required to bear it.—John Newton.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Politics and Human Misery.

By ELIOT JONES

Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities, Stanford University.

The report of the senate committee on campaign expenditures made it certain that congress would have to enact legislation at this session to prevent future political activity by the WPA. The senate has already acted favorably on the committee's recommendation and it is highly probable that the house will concur in the senate's action before this article is printed. The committee, made up of four Democrats and one Republican, found that "funds appropriated by the congress for the relief of those in need and distress have been in many instances diverted from these high purposes to political ends." It found that "there has been in several states, and in many forms, unjustifiable political activity in connection with the Works Progress Administration."

In Kentucky in the Democratic primary, WPA employes were solicited for contributions to the campaign funds of Senator Barkley, and they were systematically canvassed as to their preference in the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Aided by such tactics and the open support of the president, Barkley won the nomination.

The committee further found that WPA workers were requested by foremen to sign papers stating that they would support Candidate Barkley, that Barkley campaign buttons were passed out to workers on various projects by foremen; and that in many instances persons known to be opposed to Barkley were discharged, some other reason than the political reason being given. Moreover, forms to provide information for the Barkley campaign committee were prepared by WPA forces on official time at government expense, except for stationery, which was furnished by the Barkley campaign committee.

It was also shown that state employes, whose salaries were derived in part from United States treasury funds, were solicited for contributions on behalf of Governor Chandler Barkley's opponent in the Democratic primary, and in such manner as to amount to intimidation and coercion.

In Tennessee there was a vigorous effort throughout the state to raise campaign funds by contributions from federal employes, including relief workers, under circumstances in certain instances indicating intimidation and coercion. WPA labor and materials, paid for with funds appropriated by congress for emergency relief purposes, namely farm-to-market roads, were used to construct and repair private drives and roadways, apparently for the purpose of influencing votes. And efforts were made to induce WPA workers to change their registration, under the threat that failure to do so would result in a loss of WPA status.

In Pennsylvania essentially the same tactics were employed. In one instance WPA workers, along with other groups, were directed to attend a political rally, and were informed by letter that "there will be no excuse accepted for lack of attendance." The senate committee characterized this summons as "in the nature of an implied threat and a grave interference with the right of relief workers to be free from coercion in the exercise of their political rights."

Persons high in the administration have on occasion spoken contemptuously of those who "play politics with human misery." Yet this is exactly what they themselves were doing, as the comprehensive and impartial report of the senate committee makes abundantly clear.

A Farmer's Diary

Visit to Washington's Home.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN I visited Mt. Vernon, George Washington's home, several years ago, I met an aged, feeble gray-haired colored man walking laboredly about the spacious grounds. He greeted me with a pleasant "Good mornin'."

"This is a wonderful day," said I.

"Yo' can smell the trees abloomin' all along the ribber," he replied, gesturing toward the quiet-flowing Potomac. "I'd nebber want to live no place else."

"How old are you?" I asked.

"Dunno, quite. My mammy say I wuz three year old when the war was over. My great-granpappy was a servant in the big house, and my granpappy tended Royal Gif'—that's the jackass the king of Spain done gib Marse George. The stable was up there on the hill. He went along with the jack all through the South, once."

"How big was Washington's estate, when he died?

"He had more'n fifty thousand acres. Marse George was the best farmer in whole America. He made the mos' and bestes' flour from his own wheat, an' got mo' for it than no one else around. He raised bigger hosses, an' slicker mules, an' better cattle than the whole country.

"Marse George lubbed the lan'. Took off'n his coat an' worked in the field—planted apple trees with his own hands. All the black an' white folks lubbed his ridin' about on his big hoss. Use t' wave his hat to 'em. No I don' wanta lib nowhere else but here. De Lawd done blest the very groun' Marse George walked on."

Together he and I walked slowly down to the aged stone tomb in the hollow near the house, and stood in silent reverence. The vast estate stretched westward many miles, enriched by the splendid character that had walked or ridden over these hills or valleys.

Financially he was the wealthiest farmer of America, in his day, but it is more to us that he possessed simple honesty, a sense of fairness, love for humanity and strength of manhood. "The bravest are the tenderest, the loving are the daring."

Listen, World!

Out of Their Graves, They Call!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY! The truly "blessed event" of that gallant gentleman who made America by combining the dream of the aristocrat with the valiant courage of the ditch-digger. There was the real beginning of democracy. Not in eloquent oratory . . . but in the warm, wide vision of one brave and gentle man.

And that is where democracy must always root—if it is to survive at all. Not in pompous phrases—but in our common desire, our common effort . . . and the common prayer of the man in broadcloth and the man in the sweat-stained jeans.

A great truth. But how was I to express it today? I'd wondered . . . felt inadequate and ashamed. And then they came—that racing, rip-roarious tide of those who wanted to be "COLUMNIST FOR A DAY." A thousand letters in the first two hours! And, heading them all, the following glorious tribute to — THE AMERICAN SPIRIT. How could I honor George Washington's memory? Here was the answer! So gratefully, proudly, in the name of all those honest workers who have built America, I give this letter from O. F. Reeves, of Atlanta, Ga.

OUT OF THEIR GRAVES, THEY CALL!

"GRAND-DAD passed away not long ago. He was nearing ninety — weary of his load of years. With his body, they buried the "minie-ball" that had been in his flesh since 1864. As a little fellow, I cried when he told me how he had received that wound. The color-bearer of his company had fallen just ahead of him. There was nothing for him to do but pick up the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy and march on toward the Yanks. He was climbing the fence, holding the colors high, when the "minie-ball" hit him.

"His wound was mine in those days . . . my little soul was bitter. America was not my land. The South was my land . . . because Grand-daddy had fought for it.

"I KNOW BETTER NOW. GRAND-DAD WAS FIGHTING FOR ALL AMERICA. HE WAS, WITH MANY OTHERS, PROVING THAT THIS NATION WAS INDIVIDABLE. HE HAD NO QUARREL WITH THE AMERICAN DREAM . . . HE WAS MERELY UNCERTAIN HOW IT MIGHT BE MAINTAINED.

"There is no uncertainty today. There are still differences of opinion . . . demoralizing influences and pressures, but we are all united in the one faith that 'GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE, SHALL NOT PERISH FROM THE EARTH.'

"There is the one vision which unites us all, whatever our individual differences . . . the one call which stirs all living blood and rises from those thousands of graves, which hallow the breadth of our continent. Happily, it is not yet demanded that we should go to war . . . and God grant that demand may never come again. BUT THERE IS A CALL FOR EVERY ONE OF US TO PREPARE FOR THE HEROIC LIFE!

"We can never be brave Americans in battle unless we are brave Americans in peace. We can never be loyal in war, unless we are loyal in each common act and thought. We must carry patriotism in our daily desire as my Grand-daddy carried that minie-ball in his secret flesh, until the end.

"THERE IS THE CALL WHICH SHOULD AROUSE EVERY AMERICAN TODAY . . . A CALL WHICH SHOULD LIFT EACH ONE OF US ABOVE THE THOUGHT OF PETTY PERSONAL GAIN TO THE HEIGHTS OF IMMORTAL SERVICE! OUT OF THE GRAVES OF OUR HEROIC DEAD THAT CALL COMES, INTO THE RANKS OF THE LIVING . . . GOD HELP US TO ANSWER IT WORTHILY!"

O. F. REEVES,
Atlanta, Georgia.

And I for one, whisper—"Amen!"

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It really amazes me the way the big hotels are able to reflect world opinion and to express, in concrete form, the changes that come, however impromptu, by war, death, or political upheaval.

The death of Pope Pius XI was an excellent example of the state of preparedness some of these hotels are in. Within a few moments after the news flashed from Rome the Papal flag was waving at half-mast from the Waldorf-Astoria, alongside the Stars and Stripes.

It was a huge flag and an impressive one, measuring 30 by 20 feet, carrying the Vatican City design of the Cross and the tiara with the three crowns, which are emblematic of the position and dignity of the Pope, and also the purple keys representing the keys to the Kingdom of Heaven given to St. Peter—all against a background of golden yellow and white.

Almost every day you see flags of various nations flying from the masts of the metropolitan hotels. One day it will be the Union Jack, signifying that perhaps the British ambassador is in the city and at that hotel; the next it will be the tri-colors of France, and so on. It is another of the interesting and colorful facets of life in New York.

THERE is a society of amateur chefs in New York which is composed of men who make cooking a hobby, and there are some surprisingly famous people in it. Among these are Russell Patterson, Arthur William Brown, William Rhode, Rex Stout, Bradshaw Crandall, and Dean Cornwell, all celebrated as artists and writers in their own right.

The other days these gentlemen, together with a number of this year's debutantes, went over to Sherman Billingsley's Stork club to participate in a strange ceremony known as the "Hors d'Oeuvres Pallete," and the results were something to behold.

Dean Cromwell, who is famous for his magazine covers and illustrations as well as his Old King Cole masterpiece, came up with a little creation which he labeled "Photo-salami," and this was a portrait in roast-beef, with "Einstein hair" (a great halo of shredded American cheese). The features of the face were fashioned from torn bits of a match cover.

You get the idea? It went on from there, and just what the various creations were supposed to be I wouldn't know. But it was a lot of fun for the artists, and it also provided some sound practical experience for at least three of the debutantes, who are brides and will soon have kitchens of their own to manage.

HERE'S a curious, watermarked, time-dimmed document. It came in the mail with the compliments of the American restaurant and bar of the Hotel Times Square, and it is a facsimile copy of Abraham Lincoln's license to operate a saloon, granted long before Lincoln reached the White House. Abe had two partners, William Berry and John Bowling Green, and licenses in those days were mandatory because it was a pledge not to sell liquor to "Negroes, Indians or children."

But the most interesting item, in light of prices in bars today, are the bar and menu prices listed in the Lincoln saloon; French brandy, .25; peach brandy, half pint, 18¾ cents; Lodging, per night, 12½ cents; horse, per night, 25 cents; breakfast, dinner or supper for stage coach passengers, 37½ cents; rum, per half pint, 18¾ cents; apple brandy, half pint, 12 cents; Holland gin, half pint, 18¾ cents; domestic gin, 12 cents, and whisky, 12½ cents per half pint.

The penalty for breaking this pledge would have cost Lincoln and his partners his license and $300.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1938.)

READ THIS FIRST

Asked to leave her boarding house because she had no money to pay rent, Lona Ackerman finds herself stranded on a city street.

CHAPTER TWO

Standing there on the street, Lona looked at the three dimes that were her only capital, and then put them back into her purse. Picking up her suitcase again, she trudged on, averting her eyes from the restaurant that loomed invitingly across the way. No supper for her tonight. The dimes would have to be saved for breakfast. It would be easier to sleep on an empty stomach, than to go forth, breakfastless, on the weary hunt for work.

The thought of sleep brought a wry grin to her lips as she set her feet down monotonously one after the other, and considered just what she ought to do. What did girls like her do, she wondered? Girls who had been put out of their boarding houses . . . There must be some place to go, her tired brain began to repeat rhythmically . . . There must be some place.

The Y. W. C. A. was, after all, the last resource left her, she decided, a weary fifteen minutes later. She detested the thought of asking for charity, confessing her plight even to sympathetic ears, but there seemed no other out. Purposely she turned her lagging steps toward the big stone "Y" building she had often passed on her way downtown to the office.

But when she stood at the desk facing the businesslike secretary, her feeble courage failed. The woman was so cheerfully neat, her gray hair so carefully waved, there hung about her and the whole place such an indefinable air of well-being, that it was impossible to stammer out her story of failure.

While the woman waited, pencil poised expertly, she swallowed back her half-formed plea for help, and brought out some excuse about having come to the wrong place.

To cover her confusion she asked to be directed to the nearest restaurant. Restaurant! With thirty cents in her purse . . . Back out on the street she shifted her suitcase to the other arm, and resumed her tramping in the gathering dusk.

Ten-thirty that night found her shivering on a bench in one of the city parks. About her sounded all the queer noises of the summer night. The humming of insects and the lonesome croaking of frogs in the park pond contrasted with the gay strains of music floating in from the nearby street. She had dragged her bench back into the shelter of some shrubbery, but now and then passers-by made her shrink farther back into the gloom. Strolling lovers, these passersby were, mostly. Once a pair of them stopped nearby and she caught the sound of kisses and murmured endearments. It was hard to realize that there were people still loving each other in this world. Somewhere out there, they were dancing, too. Kissing in out-of-the-way corners, and laughing, while she crouched here, alone.

For the first time the full realization of her position seemed to grip her. As the slow minutes dragged by one by one the lights of the park were extinguished, she tried desperately to flog her tired mind into some semblance of a plan.

There must be something she could do. Something besides just sit here and shiver while the night grew blacker and blacker. There must be something she could do . . . The refrain started again. . . . There must be something to do. . . . There must be some place to go. . . . Things like this didn't happen to girls like her. There must be something to do.

It was getting cold. Even the summer nights were chilly at this hour. She found herself shivering more and more, and she was hungry—so hungry. And the darkness was so terrifying. The bushes and trees, so inviting in the heat of the noonday sun, seemed to take on strange shapes. They seemed to be moving, closing in on her like great, hungry animals, nearer, nearer, until she had to shut her eyes to keep out the sight of them. And then she could still hear them moving, moving.

She sprang up, at last, unable to stay quiet any longer. And then, peering through the darkness, she saw that there really was something moving. A dark shape loomed suddenly on the path so near that she could have reached out and touched it. A man's shape. New terror gripped her, then, and she shrank back on her bench again. Suppose it were a policeman, and he told her to move on! Where could she go?

* * *

Then she saw the outline of a head above the bushes and she knew it was no policeman. And in that instant she knew also, that she was going to speak to him. Whoever he was, she'd speak to him. And whatever followed would have to follow. She was finished with struggling. She'd leave things up to fate. If he was a good man, all right. And if he wasn't—make him be a good man, she began praying crazily . . . Make him be a good man.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

When he was almost upon her, he paused, and a match flamed suddenly. In its light she saw his fact as he bent to shelter the cigaret he was trying to light with his cupped hand. A little sob of relief escaped her. He was the man of the boarding house! The man who had taken her room.

At the sound of her sob, he looked up, startled. Then the match died down and he was on the bench beside her.

"What are you doing here?" he asked, and at the sharpness in his tone the tears Lona had kept back until now started in her eyes.

"Don't!" she managed to bring out. "Oh, don't—"

"Why, you poor kid!" He was looking at her battered suitcase. "I was afraid of this," he said, and the sympathy in his voice was the last straw. The flood of sobs she had been damming for days burst forth uncontrollably.

Without another word he reached out a reassuring arm for her there in the dark. Like a child she clung, the faint smell of tobacco from his rough clothes carrying her back irresistibly to the old days before her father had—left her alone.

"That woman ought to be hung!" He stroked her hair awkwardly. "Putting a kid like you out on the street. Damn her! Why didn't you say something? I wouldn't have taken her room if I—knew—"

For a long, delicious moment Lona gave herself up to the comfort of her sobs. To have someone concerned about her, to feel that she wasn't alone, after these terrible days. It was a taste of heaven! Then, gradually, her sense of propriety reared its head, and she sat up with growing dismay. What was she doing, crying in this strange man's arms? Blubbering like a baby.

"Oh, I—I'm sorry," she stammered. "I didn't mean to c-cry. I'll be—all right."

"Have you had any supper?" he asked her suddenly. Then, before she could frame an answer, "I know you haven't. Come on, there's a night restaurant open a couple of blocks down."

Her pride raising its head again, she began to protest. She wasn't hungry, she'd had her supper, some supper. Not much, of course, but—

"Come on, girl," he cut her short, gently. "Here! He shoved a big handkerchief smelling of talcum powder toward her in the darkness. "Dry your eyes, and let's get going," he ordered.

YACHT SINKING

Craft Radios for Help 480 Miles From San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—The Duke of Sutherland's yacht, Sanspeur, radioed for help early today, saying she had struck a submerged rock in the Gulf of California and was filling with water in the forward hold.

The yacht's position was given as 480 miles south of San Diego, off Santa Catalina. The message asked that a salvage boat be dispatched.

Questions Tell of New Jobless Insurance Act

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another of a series of questions and answers pertaining to the new Ohio Unemployment Compensation Act.

Q—Are individuals, as well as partnerships or corporations, subject to contributions on their entire payroll?

A—No. Only such remuneration as falls within the category of coverable employment. They would not have to return on the salaries paid to individuals who are performing services in exempted employment.

Q—Under what circumstances is any employer engaging the services of a contractor or a subcontractor the employer of persons hired by the contractor or sub-contractor, and liable for payroll contributions on their wages?

A—When such employer retains control over the means and methods by which the work is to be done, and has the right to hire and dismiss the employes.

Q—Is an officer of a corporation an employe, regardless of the fact that he may own the controlling interest in the corporation?

A—An officer of a corporation who owns the controlling interest therein is, nevertheless, an employe under the act if he performs services for remuneration.

Q—What are the benefit rights of employes engaged in seasonal industries similar to the construction industry?

A—Assuming, for the purpose of this question, that the construction industry is seasonal, the right to benefits of employes engaged in this industry will apply only at the longest seasonal period.

Q—Does the same pro rata proportion apply upon a payroll basis for total wages paid or for total hours employed—including lost time on account of bad weather, etc?

A—The charge-back is pro rated in proportion to the payroll basis of the total wages paid, and not for the total hours employed.

Q—Will the employer or employers be advised by the O. S. E. S. when application is made for employment by a former employe?

A—Yes.

INFEST COUNTY

Jap Beetles Found Here, U. S. Orders Quarantine.

Mansfield and other sections of Richland county have been placed under Japanese beetle quarantine regulations by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because the destructive beetle has infested parts of the county, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C., said today.

The quarantine prohibits the movement of fruits and vegetables from the regulated areas unless the shipments are accompanied by certificates indicating they are free the infestation, the dispatch added.

Other Ohio counties added in part or entirety to the quarantine area are Harrison, Licking, Trumbull and Tuscarawas. The regulated area in which there is major infestation by beetles includes sections of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and New York.

The department of agriculture makes its survey by erecting small metal traps in which the beetles are caught.

SHIP FRAGMENTS FOUND IN AFRICA

Cork and Wood Believed From Vessel Sunk In 1909.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—(AP)—Fragments of cork and wood washed up at Keimouth, near East London, may solve one of the great mysteries of the sea—the fate of the 9,000-ton passenger ship Waratah, which disappeared in 1909 with 211 passengers between Durban and Capetown.

The Waratah was last seen off Port St. Johns by the Clan Macintyre, the two ships exchanging signals.

Experts say the wreckage found at Keimouth came from a ship that has long been under water and now is breaking up. The Waratah is the only large vessel lost in that neighborhood.

URGES SAFETY BELTS FOR CARS

Surgeon Sees Method To Curb Injuries In Accidents.

EL PASO, Tex. —(AP)— If you want to avoid the chance of disfigurement in an auto accident wear a safety belt or learn to think quickly.

That is the advice of Dr. John Pangman, plastic surgeon, who repairs disfigured persons. When an accident occurs, passengers frequently are injured because they are thrown about the inside of the car, Dr. Pangman said. A safety belt that holds the passengers tightly in their seat might prevent this.

Lacking a belt, the doctor suggested a person has a better chance of escaping injury if he grabs an overcoat, blanket or similar article and clutches it to the upper portion of his body and over his face, protecting himself.

OFFER MURDER REWARD

SANDUSKY—(AP)—Rewards totaling $500 were posted today "for apprehension and conviction of the murderer" of Carl Schlett of Sandusky, whose body was found in a ditch near Bellevue last month. Erie and Huron county commissioners offered $250 each.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

FRED L. HERRING has been having an exciting time of it—he arrived recently in Nassau, British Bahamas—to while away the hours on the coral beaches of that tropical isle while the rest of us are merely confronted with snow-covered walks and stalling automobiles. Mr. Herring went down to Nassau from Miami, Fla., by means of a flying clipper ship . . . and the flight took him over the Florida Keys and miniature emerald isles which dot the Gulf Stream waters—reputed to be so clear that the clipper passengers can discern the beautiful coral formations and gardens at the bottom of the sea.

Just in case you didn't know it, the word jardiniere might well be termed a stickler in a spelling bee—at least members of the North Lake Park association found that to be the case when they had a dinner meeting and spelling bee recently. It was Mrs. Harry Haag who finally succeeded in spelling jardiniere correctly after 30 persons had been spelled down on it.

VACATION BOUND: L. L. Weber took the train down to New Orleans, La., last week-end—and yesterday participated in the annual Mardi Gras festival there. Mr. Weber plans to spend the next few weeks in the southern states. . . . Mrs. Clara Robison, Mrs. Gay Ruhlen, Mrs. Florence Burghard, Mrs. Marguerite Lemley and her daughter, Roberta, are leaving Mansfield tomorrow morning on their Florida vacation. They plan to drive down to Ft. Lauderdale first and then tour the principal cities of the southern state.

IT'S always interesting to hear news concerning the whereabouts and activities of former Mansfielders—that's why a letter from Marge Knarr was so welcome this week. She and her husband, Stewart, were formerly connected with the Friendly House here . . . and then went to do welfare work at the Madison Square Boys' club in New York City. More recently the Knarrs have been connected with the University of Chicago—where they work off campus at the university settlement. When Edouard Benes (former president of Czechoslovakia, who will conduct a series of lectures at the university) arrived in Chicago with his wife last week, the university faculty gave a reception and party in their honor . . . and it was there that the Knarrs met the honored guests. . . . Marge writes that they are extremely interesting people—and that they find our country very beautiful and are interested in the ways and attitudes of our people.

* * *

Another of Mansfield's lucky vacationers has been heard from . . . Madalyn (Mrs. Charles) Kuntz—who went to California with her sister, Mary Parkinson of Columbus—writes that every day brings them another place of interest to visit . . . from an old mission in Santa Barbara to new Chinatown and Hollywood and the movie stars.

It usually proves to be fun for the guests as well as the hostess when she designs and makes her own party favors. . . . Marge (Sickmiller) Isaly had some very clever tallies when she entertained her bridge club the other day. . . . She made the tallies and then pasted snapshot pictures of the guests on the front of them—and each guest found her place and partner by finding her photo.

Speaking of former Mansfielders (as we were a few paragraphs back) Rev Frederick Elliot's old friends are concerned about his illness Although he's been gone from this city for about 15 years, Rev. Elliot (who was the pastor at the United Presbyterian church) still has a wide circle of friends here . . . and they could cheer the elderly gentleman by sending him cards at the Penney Farms in Florida—where he's been living for the past five years.

Monday Ceremony Unites Pair In Matrimony at St. Peter's

ATTIRED in a white satin bridal gown with a full length veil ending in a six-foot train, Miss Evelyn Fisch came down the aisle of St. Peter's Catholic church yesterday at 9 30 a. m. on her father's arm to become the bride of Edward Fulmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Fulmer, R. D. 5. With her wedding gown Miss Fisch carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley tied with white ribbon.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fisch, 19 North Lafayette place. Her only attendant was Miss Agnes Rancinger who wore a formal blue chiffon gown with a corsage of violets and pink roses made in the round front style with a shower or ribbons attached. Mr. Fulmer's brother, Harold, was best man. The solemn ceremony was read before the church altar by Monsignor R. C. Goebel

At the ceremony Mrs. Fulmer wore a black pin-striped suit and Mrs. Fisch appeared in blue chiffon. Both had Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple and the bridal party had a wedding breakfast at the Fisch home, and a reception for friends and relatives was held in the evening. The couple is now at home at the Fulmer residence. Mr Fulmer is a carpenter.

Out-of-town guests here for the service were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koch, Loudonville; Mr. and Mrs. George Sprang and daughter, Jean, and Don Phillips, of Shelby.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

Mrs. Frank B. Black was hostess for an all-day meeting of the Charity club yesterday at Raemelton House. The group met at 10:30 a. m. and after luncheon was served, spent the remainder of the day sewing for the hospital. Miss Kathleen Sturges will have the March 7 meeting at her home on Overlook road.

REGULAR SESSION.

Candidates were initiated at the regular meeting of the Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans yesterday when the lodge met at the Memorial building. After the meeting of the Marquis Sewing circle in the afternoon, Mrs. Mary Smith and Mrs. Mary Johnston were in charge of the 6 o'clock dinner. The next regular meeting will be March 7, and the circle will hold an all-day quilting Feb 23.

Linneaus Club to Sponsor Group at Hedges School

When members of the Linneaus Garden club met at the home of Mrs. S. E. Taylor, 241 Lexington avenue, for a 1 o'clock luncheon yesterday, they learned that their organization is to be in charge of the garden club at Hedges school for the coming year. Mrs. H. M. Armstrong Mrs C K Smaltz and Mrs. Taylor were appointed as judges for this project.

Yesterday's luncheon was served at one long table, centered with a bouquet of red tulips, white narcissus, and blue iris. Other table appointments were also carried out in the colors, red, white, and blue. Mrs. C. E. Payne acted as associate hostess for the afternoon.

Officers of the club were reelected to serve for the coming year. Mrs. Frank Glasgow will again be president, Mrs. Fred Dippman, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Taylor, horticulturist. Plans for the year's program were also discussed, and Mrs. Payne was appointed chairman.

During the program yesterday, Mrs. C. W. Chew led a round table discussion on "Spring Planting." Three papers were also presented during the meeting by Mrs. Payne, Mrs Marion Brinkerhoff and Mrs Harvey Lanehart. Their topics were "Godetia," "Sweetpeas," and "New Red Marigolds." Mrs Brinkerhoff will be hostess for the next luncheon meeting at her home on Penn avenue, March 21, with Mrs. Dippman assisting.

PLAN SALE, DANCE AT SORORITY MEET

Chi Sigma Members Announce Committee for March Social Session; Reveal Arrangements For Semi-Formal Dance.

WHEN members of Chi Sigma sorority met for a business session at the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday evening, they made final plans for a bake sale, which they are sponsoring this Saturday morning in the Third Street market. Mrs. Wilbur Upson is in charge of arrangements for the sale.

Miss Wilma Snider will be in charge of the March social meeting of the group, when formal initiation services will be held for the sorority's pledges. Those assisting Miss Snider with plans for the meeting are the Misses Mary Strater, Naomi Stutz, Ruth Zelenka, Mary Elizabeth Miller, and Florence Nail

Miss Stutz reported on the Delta province convention, which she attended in St. Louis, Mo., earlier this month, and the group also discussed the sorority's national convention, which will be held this July in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The sorority members are also planning a semi-formal dance to be given on March 18 in the ballroom at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Tommy Van and his orchestra will furnish the music for dancing from 10 until 2 o'clock The next regular meeting of the organization will be on Feb. 28 at the hotel.

Brinkerhoff P. T. A. Has Benefit Party at School

There were 42 tables of cards and games in play last night at Brinkerhoff school when a benefit party was sponsored by the school P. T. A. Table prizes were presented, and patriotic refreshments were served at the close of the evening by nine sixth grade girls. Mrs. Harold Leppert won the door prize.

Refreshments were served by Janet and Joan Banks, Martha Purdy, Joan Leppert, Georgine Rupp, Norma Jean Young, Bettie Gibson, Mary Margaret Kochheiser and Helen Pecht. Arrangements were made by Mr. and Mrs Robert Black, Mr. and Mrs G. C Young, Mr. and Mrs C M. Banks and Mr. and Mrs. C. G Young.

HAVE SESSION.

Mrs. Paul Hensler, Vennum avenue, entertained members of the Notre Dame Study club when Mrs. John O'Donnell spoke on the Rt. Rev. Edward Fenwick, First Bishop of Cincinnati Luncheon was served from a rose decorated table. The members gave current events for the opening of the meeting. The next session will be a covered-dish dinner March 14 with Mrs. Emmett Casey, West Fourth street.

Commemorate Birth of Founder at Session

The home of Mrs. J. H. Sheriff, 107 Penn avenue, was the scene of the 100th anniversary celebration of the birth of Frances Willard. Members of the Frances Willard W. C. T. U. chapter commemorated her birth with a program and covered-dish dinner. While the group made two comforts and sewed blocks, Mrs. W. C. B. Harris took charge of the program and gave a paper on the famous woman

Mrs W. E Shane then led the devotions, and all the members gave brief talks on Miss Willard's life in response to roll call. Mrs. E. E. Poole gave a paper entitled "What Does the W. C T. U. Offer Christian Womanhood?" Mrs. F. O. Haldeman spoke on the topic "Frances Willard's Life Will Ever Inspire Mankind." and Mrs. Mary Hulit's paper was "America's Uncrowned Queen." The next meeting will be March 21.
